Dr. Lynda Warren
Awarded $47,100 Grant

With her current study on suicide in gifted women in its final stages, Dr. Lynda Warren (Psychology) has been awarded a $47,100 grant from the Spencer Foundation to continue research on gifted women with Dr. Carol Tomlinson-Keasey, professor of psychology at University of California, Riverside.

Titled "Self-Efficacy and Competence in Gifted Women," her study was earlier supported by a Faculty Professional Development Grant for the 1984-85 academic year that enabled her to travel to Stanford University to begin research. While earlier research focused on suicide in gifted women, her current grant will allow her one-third release time for the 1985-86 academic year to determine what psychological factors distinguish gifted women who achieved high levels of self-efficacy and competence from those who did not. Dr. Warren hopes to be able to isolate predictors of life success in gifted women that enhance their own self-esteem and contribute to society.

As in earlier research, Dr. Warren will study data collected by Lewis Terman, a psychologist who conducted a well-known longitudinal study of more than 600 gifted children from infancy to adulthood in California.

"This is a fascinating data set by Terman," said Dr. Warren. "The factors we find ought to be applicable to gifted girls today."

Drs. Warren and Tomlinson-Keasey will begin research on their grant in March and expect the project to last 21 months.

Association Of Emeriti Prof To Begin Formation Systemwide

A systemwide CSU Association of Emeriti Professors is being formed.

The association, believed to be the country's first independent organization of emeriti faculty in a multi-campus university system, is expected to attract men and women retired from academic positions on the 19 CSU campuses.

"We seek to establish emeriti faculty as fully recognized, continuing and contributing members of the academic community," said Dr. Sidney P. Albert, professor emeritus of philosophy from CSU, Los Angeles. Albert, retired in 1979, is the association's first president. He is also founding president of the Emeriti Association of CSU, Los Angeles, which sponsored the systemwide group.

"The emeriti of the CSU system are a rich academic resource, still largely untapped," Albert continued. "Organized, they will be in an improved position to render valuable service to their faculty colleagues, to the university, to higher education in general and to each other."

Reminder On Heating Says 'No Portable Heaters'

Winter temperatures in campus buildings have been adjusted to 68 degrees, the new limit established by the State Energy Conservation Measure, James H. Urata (Administrative Affairs) reports. The maximum for heating formerly was 65 degrees.

Urata also said use of portable electric heaters still is prohibited, unless special authorization is received for unusual circumstances. The heaters are high energy users and also disrupt thermostats controlling temperatures.

Anyone who believes there is inadequate heat in a given area should call Heating and Airconditioning, Ext. 7436, and an engineer will bring a recording thermometer to check the situation.

The California State University, San Bernardino BULLETIN is published by the Public Affairs Office, AD 117, Ext. 7558. Items for publication should be received in writing by noon Tuesday.

Early Registration
Postponed To Fall '86

Early registration, which had been planned for implementation in fall 1985 has been postponed until fall 1986. This delay has been caused by a number of factors related to integration of two computer systems, said Cheryl Weese (Admissions).

According to Weese, the Early Registration Task Force regrets having to delay implementation; however, they felt early registration would be more successful by doing so.
