Doublespeak Editor
To Speak Here March 4
It has been a "good" year for Doublespeak, says William Lutz, who will speak here twice on Monday, March 4. Editor of the "Quarterly Review of Doublespeak," Lutz is recognized as a national watchdog over the dishonest use of language, said Dr. Edward White (English), who is arranging the visit.

Lutz will speak first at noon in the Lower Commons. Faculty, staff and students are invited to bring their lunches and hear him, Dr. White said. The community will join the campus for the evening lecture, at 7:00 p.m. in the Student Union Multipurpose Room.

Lutz, who is an attorney as well as chair of the English department at Rutgers University, will speak of the ways in which language hides or replaces thought in many fields—business, government, military, academic life. The National Council of Teachers of English established a committee on public doublespeak, after George Orwell introduced the concept in his novel, 1984, and focused attention on the way language can be manipulated by public figures. Lutz chaired the committee and has presented the annual ironic Doublespeak award to the most imposing example for the preceding year. Last year, the U.S. State Department gained the dubious honor.

Some of the Doublespeak terms Lutz cites from last year include "controlled flight into terrain" for an airplane crash, "permanent pre-hostility," the Pentagon's version of peace, and "violence processing" for combat.

Renaissance Banquet Features 'The Reluctant Dragon'

The traditional Renaissance banquet, "An Elizabethan Holiday Feaste," on Thursday and Friday, March 14 and 15 will feature the performance of John Rutter's "The Reluctant Dragon."

Guests will dine in the cloisters of an elaborate Medieval castle while the Chamber Singers perform English Madrigal songs and Renaissance dances. The performers, in costume, will also serve the meal.

"The Reluctant Dragon" is a well-known fairy tale about a dragon who would rather write poetry than fight knights.

The event, directed by Dr. Loren Filbeck (Music), will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Commons. The cost of $22.50 per person includes a sumptuous dinner. Reservations must be made by March 1 in the Music Department, Ext. 7454. Although tickets are still available, early reservations are advised as the banquet traditionally sells out quickly.

Special performances of the Renaissance event will be given March 16-17 for members of the President's Club, University Club and President's Circle. Information is available from Dr. Judith Rymer (Executive Dean).
Any One For 'Cats'

Two tickets are still available for the Cal State Associates-sponsored trip to see the Tony Award-winning musical, "Cats," Saturday afternoon, March 30 at the Schubert Theatre in Los Angeles. The cost of $45 per person, $90 per couple, includes orchestra seats, bus transportation and refreshments enroute to the 2:30 p.m. matinee. Dinner enroute home will be no-host. Anyone interested in purchasing the remaining tickets should see Don McKenzie (Budget Office). For non-members of the Associates, there is a $5 additional fee.

System Seal And Name Used Incorrectly

Due to a miscommunication, TIAA-CREF recently used the official seal and name of The California State University on 403(b) tax shelter annuity literature that was distributed to employees. That permission was in direct violation of CSU regulations.

Use of the seal and the name of The California State University for commercial purposes is expressly prohibited by the Board of Trustees. The board does not endorse, sponsor or in any way recommend products offered by firms participating in our tax shelter programs. TIAA is but one of a number of firms eligible to market plans to CSU employees. Use of the seal and the name is misleading and implies endorsement.

Acting in good faith, officials of the company have agreed to discontinue the use of the seal and the CSU name on all literature made available to employees of the system in the future. They have also agreed to provide a disclaimer to employees that may have responded to the literature already distributed.

Any questions should be directed to the Personnel Office, Ext. 7205.

Scholarships For Teachers Created In Foundation

Funds to create two scholarships for San Bernardino teachers and classified employees during the 1985-86 year have been deposited in the University Foundation by Howard Grossman, member and past chair of the San Bernardino City Schools' Board of Education.

The $1250 given by Grossman will be matched, on a 2-1 basis, by his employer, TRW, announced Dr. Judith Rymer (University Relations). The TRW gift will be provided one year from the date of the Grossman donation.

A $750 annual scholarship will be awarded to a classified employee in the San Bernardino City Schools who seeks to become qualified to teach math, science or computer science. A $500 scholarship will be awarded to an experienced teacher who wishes to retrain to teach math, science or computer science.

Forms to apply for the scholarships, which can be used in summer school, are available from the Financial Aid Office, the School of Education Office or the School of Natural Sciences Office.

PAYDAY WILL BE THURSDAY, FEB. 28
Conference To Present Issues Of Apartheid

Development of a better understanding of current problems in South Africa is the goal of a conference on the apartheid movement to be held Saturday March 9 on campus under the sponsorship of the Cal State International Club.

Speaking against the apartheid policy will be two representatives of South Africa's Apartheid Mass Exposure group, Clifford Cenge, from the African National Congress, and Ron Wilkens, from the Patrice Lumumba Coalition. The International Club is endeavoring to secure speakers who will explain the United States' position toward South Africa and the role of multinational corporations in that country's economic development, said Basel Dajani, president.

With panels and speakers, the conference hopes to consider three issues: how apartheid policies segregate races in South Africa, the effect of American business on that country and arguments for and against a pullout of U.S. foreign investment from South Africa, he said.

The cost for the conference will be $12, which includes a continental breakfast and luncheon. Special rates will be available for students. Further information and tickets may be secured by contacting the International Club members through the Activities Office, Ext. 7407.

Ghost Sonata To Open Thursday

Directed by Dr. Ronald E. Barnes (Theatre Arts), "The Ghost Sonata" explores the realm between the conscious and unconscious through the conflict between a shy young student who develops a mature perception of good, and an old man who is punished for his evil deeds. The large cast of characters is drawn together by marriages, affairs and betrayal.

Tickets, available at the door, are $4.25 for general admission, and $2 for students and senior citizens. All performances begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Theatre.

She will also discuss toy safety and distribute informational pamphlets. The free workshop will be held at 7 p.m. Free child care will be provided.
Trustee O'Connell Honored With Memorial

The John F. O'Connell Memorial Fund has been established in the California State University Foundation to commemorate the contributions the late trustee made to the CSU, Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds announced.

From gifts to the fund, an annual award will be made to an outstanding teacher selected by a panel of educators and community leaders.

Anyone wishing to honor the late trustee in this manner should send the contribution to the California State University Foundation, at the CSU headquarters, and earmark the gift for the John F. O'Connell Memorial Fund.

Public Speaking Discussed March 5

Dr. Dorothy Mettee (Communication) will speak to faculty, staff and students on "Speak Without Fear," Tuesday, March 5 in the SUMP. She will present practical ways to reduce anxiety while speaking in public, in the classroom, and in social situations.

Rosemary Binney (Learning Center) suggests that anyone interested bring their lunch to the noon discussion.

Valentine Winners Announced

Eric Chimenti, a freshman art major, received honors for the "most beautiful" valentine in the recent campus competition for a pencil-sketched drawing of a man and woman.

Roy Perry, a junior administration major, received the largest number of votes in the "most humorous" category. Roy's valentine pictured a 1965 Chevrolet with an appropriate message.

Sponsor of the contest, the Services to Students with Disabilities Office, presented each winner with a heart-shaped box of candy.

University Status Acknowledged On Freeway

Freeway signs finally have been changed from "State College Pkwy" to "University Pkwy" on I-215. Since the campus' official change to university status last July, Caltrans and other responsible agencies have been working to update the signs. Anyone directing strangers to campus should take note of the changes.
