Several Improvements On Tap On Campus

A temporary paved parking lot near the tennis courts, automatic doors to aid the handicapped and a room addition to the Lower Commons are among several improvement projects which are underway or will be shortly, reports James Urata, director of administrative affairs and plant operations.

The university has received $40,000 from the Chancellor's Office to pave the unimproved dirt lot south of the tennis courts to provide 250 parking spaces. The project will go out to bid shortly and additional funding will be sought at a later date to add lighting for the area.

Automatic doors will be installed at the door closest to the Purchasing Office in the Administration Building and at the door to the Services to Students with Disabilities Office in the Library. Bids will open Tuesday, Jan. 28 for the $14,000 project, which should be under construction by the end of February.

A new 1500-square-foot enclosure will be built adjacent to the Panorama Rooms in the Lower Commons at a cost of $70,000. The project will enclose the area under the outdoor deck of the Commons and will be used for classes and meetings, Urata said. Bids will be opened Thursday, Jan. 30 on the new quarters, which will be known as the Sycamore Room.

A $58,000 project to build a broadcast booth in the Creative Arts Building for use by the Communication Department is currently out to bid. The booth will be used for practicum courses in radio broadcasting and should be ready for use by April 1. Long range plans call for possible use of the facility to broadcast studio programs over cable television.

Other improvements include $745,000 allotted in Governor Deukmejian's budget for another parking lot and an addition to the Bookstore. If the state legislature approves the budget, funding could be available July 1 for extending the present parking lot near the Commons to the residence halls. In addition to 400 new parking spaces, the $400,000 project would create a new access road from campus to North Park Boulevard. Approximately $325,000 has been budgeted for plans to expand the Bookstore 3200-square-feet from the east wall with an accompanying basement of the same size. The basement would house other campus offices until the Bookstore needs to expand again.

Architects are completing working drawings for plans to double the size of the women's restroom in the Administration Building. The $35,000 project will involve switching the toilet fixtures between the men's and women's rooms. No date has been set for construction work.

State Senator Hart To Appear Here

State Senator Gary K. Hart (D-18) will speak on educational reform in an appearance here at 8 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 30 in the Lecture Hall of the Physical Sciences Building. A reception will be held in the adjoining foyer following his talk. The event is free and open to the public.

Hart is an advocate of strengthening academic standards and providing better funding for public education in the state. He is chair of the Senate Education Committee and vice-chair of the joint committee on Review of the Master Plan for Higher Education, in addition to several other committee assignments. In 1983, he co-authored SB 813, a major school finance-education reform bill.
Bookstore Closes For Inventory

The university Bookstore will be closed Thursday and Friday, Jan. 30-31, in order to take inventory, announced Carol Dunlap, manager of the Bookstore. Bookstore personnel will not be able to handle telephone inquiries on those days either, she said.

Open House At Evening Office

Faculty, staff and students are invited to attend the winter quarter open house of the Evening Office, which is located in the Advising Center in PL 107. The open houses will be held from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m., Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 3 and 4, respectively. The event is designed to acquaint university personnel with the services of the Evening Office.

New Committee Formed For Health Issues

A new Student Health Advisory Committee has been formed to provide for student feedback on Health Center policies. The committee members are: Dr. James Savage (Health Center), Linda Stockham (Anthropology), Barbara Sovereign (Services to Students with Disabilities), Vivian McEachern (Health Center) and Patrick Vance (Health Science). Three student representatives have yet to be named by the president of Associated Students.

Applicants Invited For Administrative Fellows

The CSU system is initiating its search for candidates for the Administrative Fellows Program, which is designed to increase representation of women and minorities at all levels of administration and management in the system. The program is directed toward individuals who have had administrative experience or who have demonstrated the potential for management through leadership activities. Persons awarded a fellowship are usually assigned positions at campuses other than their own for one year. Candidates should file an application with the Academic Personnel Office by March 14. Applicants will be interviewed by a campus selection committee, which will make a report to President Evans who forwards his recommendation to the CSU chancellor. Appointments will be contingent on funding provided in the state budget, which will be signed June 30, 1986.

Physical Exams Given Feb. 5

A mobile health testing program sponsored by the Association of California State University Professors (ACSUP) will be on campus from noon to 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 5 in the quad area adjacent to the Administration Building. The annual health screening is provided at no cost to members of the ACSUP health insurance plan. Members of that association will be charged $89 for adults and $59 for children ages 13-17. The cost to non-members will be $98 for adults and $68 for children. Appointments may be made by calling 1-800-542-6233. More than 50 different tests, including x-ray, pap, EKG and blood chemistries, will be performed in approximately 40 minutes. A computerized report is sent to the individual’s personal physician. More information is available from Marjorie Callahan in Personnel at Ext. 7205.
