Technology Training Grant
Largest Ever Received Here

Awarded by the State Board of Education, the grant will fund two consecutive four-week Summer Technology Training Institute sessions to train more than 200 elementary school teachers and curriculum specialists in methods of effectively integrating microcomputer and other technologies into classroom instruction.

"The grant will have a major impact on the use of technology and educational practices in elementary classrooms throughout the state," remarked Dr. Craig Blurton, project director and assistant professor of education. "We are going to train educators to use the latest techniques and methodologies to integrate microcomputers, instructional television and other aids into their daily lesson plans."

Participants in the sessions, which will be held here June 30-July 25 and July 28-Aug. 22, also will be taught to be effective trainers of other educators in school districts in their respective regions, Dr. Blurton added. Dr. Adria Klein, chair of the Teacher Education Department, will work with the institute staff to coordinate activities with the university's teacher training program.

The grant is one of four Summer Technology Institutes funded last week. Other recipients included UC, Berkeley, for middle school science and mathematics; Cal State, Long Beach, for English/language arts for secondary teachers; and UC, Santa Barbara, for history and social sciences for secondary teachers.

Dr. Robert Detweiler, vice president for academic affairs, expressed the university's pleasure with the award. "I am delighted that our university has been selected to direct this important project, which will enhance the quality of elementary school teachers. Professor Craig Blurton and his colleagues are to be congratulated for winning the funds to support this project and for adding to the prestige of our excellent School of Education."

Deans Search Committees
Report On Prospects

The search committees for the deans of business and public administration, humanities and social and behavioral sciences are in the process of narrowing the number of final candidates who will be brought to campus for interviews.

Prior to a meeting held yesterday, the committee for the dean of School of Business and Public Administration had arrived at 11 male semifinalists out of a total of 53 applicants, two of whom were women. The committee aims to narrow the selection to five people by next Friday.

The humanities committee has sifted through 78 original applicants, 15 of whom were women. When the committee meets Tuesday, Feb. 25, the 12 candidates who remain under consideration will be whittled to five or six who will be brought to campus for interviews in late March.

Out of 57 individuals applying for the dean's post for the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences, nine were women. The prospects have been trimmed to 13 semifinalists, which include two women. The committee has requested a statement of academic and administrative philosophy from each applicant by next Friday, with a goal of selecting candidates for interviews early next month.
Computer Fair On Campus Wednesday

Computer products of the Zenith Data Systems Corporation will be on display from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 26 in the Eucalyptus Room of the Lower Commons. Interested faculty, staff and students may inspect the equipment, much of which can be purchased at a significant discount at a later time.

"Because these products may be of educational benefit to our employees and students, they are being given the opportunity to participate in this program if they wish to do so," said Leonard Farwell, business manager. "Of course, the university is not endorsing any of the products nor will it provide any warranties."

Individuals wishing to make a purchase may receive information and order forms supplied by Zenith from the following persons on campus: Jennifer McMullen (Business and Public Administration), Anita Perry (Education), Gail Acevedo (Humanities), Linda Schwartz (Natural Sciences), Mary Schmidt and Mary Williams (Social and Behavioral Sciences), Steve Menzel (Personnel), Jeannie Parks (Extended Education) and Debra Sass for Foundation employees.

These people are authorized to certify that the individual making the purchase is a bona fide student or employee.

Escape Program
Needs Volunteers

The Escape Program, which provides weekend outings primarily for students, is in need of volunteers to serve as advisors for trips planned for spring quarter. Persons would not be paid, but would receive free admission to the events. Upcoming activities include trips to the downtown Los Angeles garment district and Catalina Island, a Lakers game and other sports events, and a special "college night" at Disneyland, which will feature discount admission March 14. Those interested should contact Joe Long (Recreational Sports) at Ext. 7564 or Sandy Weiser (Special Events) at Ext. 7943.

Special Education
Conference Sets Record

The nearly 800 participants who attended the regional special education conference, "Bridging for Success," Feb. 7 set a campus record for such events, reports Dr. Louise Burton (Education), coordinator of the event.

Teachers, superintendents and other administrators, workers from social agencies and a large number of parents attended. The unexpected last-minute surge in registration necessitated a number of last minute changes in room locations. Dr. Burton expressed appreciation for the campus support in directing visitors and responding to the inconvenience created by the huge attendance.

Dr. Lou Brown, University of Wisconsin professor and an advocate for integration of individuals with disabilities into the mainstream of society, keynoted the conference. "It was hugely successful and people left with a renewed interest in working together," said Dr. Burton. More than 75 persons from campus, agencies and schools were involved in planning the second annual meeting.
Health Center Yearly Blood Drive Feb. 27

The Health Center's annual blood drive will be conducted between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 27 at the center, announced Dorinda Thurman, health services assistant.

"Donations are needed to maintain a minimum reserve fund established for faculty, staff, students and their immediate families. This vital fund is then available to every member of the university community and their families during an emergency which may occur anywhere in the U.S.," she explained.

The donation process takes about one hour and release time has been authorized for staff members, she continued. All departments will be receiving sign-up sheets, which will be returned to the Health Center to indicate participation. However, no appointment is necessary, she said.

All donors will receive a coupon for one free small soft drink at the Student Union snack bar, courtesy of PFM. All first-time donors will receive a pin from the San Bernardino Blood Bank and anyone donating for the third time this year will receive a Blood Bank t-shirt. In addition, Recreational Sports has contributed a t-shirt and hat as an incentive for donors.

"We want to take this opportunity to remind everyone that it is impossible to contract Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) from donating blood," Ms. Thurman advised. "We also suggest that participants do not fast before donating blood. We will be serving cookies and orange juice to everyone after they donate."

Second Civil Rights Round Table Thursday

The second in a two-part panel discussion of civil rights issues will be held at noon, Thursday, Feb. 27 in the SUMP. "The Civil Rights Movement from a Black Perspective" follows a forum which addressed similar issues from a non-Black viewpoint yesterday. Both sessions are moderated by Dr. Mildred Henry, assistant professor of education. Next week's panelists include Ann Rhodes, supervisor of the Community Services Department for the city of San Bernardino; Maurice Roberson, former vice chair of the Riverside mayor's Youth Advisory Council; Alonza Thompson, treasurer of the Westside Action Group; and Dr. LeMar Foster, a San Bernardino pastor who worked with Dr. Martin Luther King. Sponsored by the Intellectual Life Committee and the Black Student Union, the event is part of the university's observance of Black History Month.

'Bus Stop' Winter Play

"Bus Stop," a comedy about love and loneliness, will replace the debut of a former student's work, "Halley's Comet," as the Theatre Arts Department's winter production, Feb. 27-28, March 1, and 5-8.

Written by William Inge in 1955, "Bus Stop" focuses on a group of people temporarily stranded in a small cafe when a bus becomes snowbound. The play was made into a major motion picture starring Marilyn Monroe and Don Murray.

"Inge is probably one of our better, but less appreciated American playwrights, in comparison with Tennessee Williams or Arthur Miller," remarked Dr. William Slout, director of the play. "He most often wrote about being isolated, loneliness and the need for love. However, "Bus Stop" is a comedy about love, loneliness and people getting together. It is a comedy of substance rather than the lighthearted ilk usually associated with Neil Simon."

Performances begin at 8:15 p.m. in the University Theatre. Admission is $5 for the public, $2.50 for students and senior citizens. Reservations may be made by calling the Theatre Arts Department between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday-Friday.
Dr. Mankau
Heads Biology

Dr. Sarojam Mankau is serving as acting chair of the Biology Department during winter and spring quarters while an on-campus search is underway for a permanent chair. Dr. Ruth Wilson resigned the post, which she has held since 1976.

Dr. Mankau, a zoologist with a specialization in parasitology, joined the Cal State faculty in 1966. In collaboration with her husband—Dr. Reinhold Mankau, a professor at UC Riverside, whose field is plant parasites—she has done considerable research in Africa. Her interests range from sex education, which she was one of the first to teach at Cal State, to competing in marathon races.

A native of India, Dr. Mankau earned her B.S. from the University of Madras and her M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Illinois. She taught at the University of Redlands and UCR before coming to Cal State.

Dr. Wilson is a field ecologist, whose special area is the study of rare and endangered plant species and their functional evolution. She has done archaeological, flora and fauna studies near Blythe, and flora and fauna studies in the Coachella Valley and near Beaumont for the California prison system. She also conducted research of the western Mojave flora for the Bureau of Land Management and received a grant from the U.S. Forest Service for research into rare and endangered plant species in the Angeles and San Bernardino National Forests.

Dr. Wilson joined the Cal State faculty in 1971, after completing her Ph.D. in botany from the Claremont Graduate School. Her B.A. and M.A. in biology are from Cal State, Los Angeles.

Cal State Associates
Plan Moroccan Dinner

The foods of Morocco will be prepared by members of the Cal State Associates for their annual international dinner, which will be Saturday, March 8 in the Commons.

Mrs. Lee Porter (Extended Education) and Dr. Louise Burton (Education) are co-chairs for the dinner. They have selected the menu and will supply recipes to members who attend. Reservations are to be made by Tuesday, Feb. 25 with the Public Affairs Office.

Membership in Cal State Associates is open to all present and retired faculty and staff of the university.

Campus Commission On Status Of Women Planned

A campuswide meeting is set for 2 p.m., Tuesday, March 4 in the Lower Commons to initiate a campus Commission on the Status of Women. The findings of a needs survey, distributed on campus this week, also will be discussed.

The tasks of such a commission could involve monitoring and facilitating campus policies for issues such as affirmative action, sexual harassment and educational equity networking; collecting and disseminating data; enhancing the educational mission of the university, and advocating change through proposals and recommendations, say the planning committee which includes 17 faculty, staff and students.

The local proposal is the outgrowth of a statewide conference on the Status of Women in the CSU system held at Cal Poly last November. Representatives of the Chancellor's Office and the Board of Trustees attended. The concept of a commission on this campus has received the support of President Evans and Vice President Detweiler, the planners report.
Economics Center Receives $10,000

The university's Center for Economics Education will utilize a $10,000 grant to improve economics instruction in K-12 and post-secondary classrooms beginning with a one-day workshop Thursday, Feb. 27 at the Riverside County Schools Office, said Dr. Jim Charkins, director of the center. The funds received from the Economic Literacy Council of California also will be channeled into a one-quarter course in the spring for selected teachers, who will earn credit from Cal State or UC Riverside. The economics training addresses a state requirement for implementation of a one-semester course in economics in high schools by the 1988-89 school year.

Mail Order Expert To Address Campus

Can anyone make a million in mail order? William A. Cohen, director of the Small Business Institute at Cal State, Los Angeles, will tackle the question when he discusses the direct marketing industry at noon, Wednesday, Feb. 26 in the SUMP. Sponsored by the Marketing Association and Committee for Clubs, the event is free and open to the public.

'Rape Culture' Film Tuesday

A 35-minute film, "Rape Culture," which examines the powerful messages of the mass media, will be shown at 4 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 25 in the SUMP. The film attempts to expand society's narrow and sexist concept of rape to its real and accurate limits by including the insights of rape crisis workers and prisoners working against rape. Faculty, staff and students are invited to view the movie, which is sponsored by the Communication Department.

Spanish Luncheons Need Faculty/Staff

Spanish-speaking faculty and staff are invited to join the "Spanish Tables" at noon every Wednesday in the Commons to help people exercise their fluency in the language. The lunches began two weeks ago with a group of 13, said Anne Crum (Foreign Languages).

Teacher Interview Workshop Feb. 27

Prospective teachers can get the inside track on interviewing for a job with the local schools by attending a Teacher Interviewing Workshop from 3-5 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 27 in the Lower Commons. Dr. Dan King, director of certificated personnel for the San Bernardino City Unified School District, will discuss what personnel managers look for in an interview, what questions are asked and what causes him to remember a candidate. He will conduct two or three mock interview situations and answer questions. More information is available from Lynn Moss at the Placement Center, Ext. 7551.

Retiring Employees May Arrange Interviews

Employees planning retirement in the near future may arrange to meet with a representative from the Los Angeles area office of the Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS), who will be at the Montclair City Hall April 17-18. Interested persons should contact the Los Angeles office at (213) 620-3031 by March 20. More information is available at the Personnel Office.
Parents are invited for the first time to attend the 10th annual Reading Conference here, which will focus on "Literacy in the Home" March 1.

Dr. Kathy O'Brien (Education) expects 200-300 parents, practicing teachers, Cal State faculty and members of local reading councils to hear Dr. Ralph Peterson of Arizona State University speak on "Sharing Literature: A Celebration of Life."

"Is There Life After Sociology?" Cal State alumni holding degrees in sociology and working in the field will answer that question in an open forum from 4 to 6 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 26 in the Panorama Room of the Lower Commons. The presentation is sponsored by the Sociology Club.

The 1986 federal income tax forms are available at the reference desk in the Library, according to Marty Bloomberg. In addition, several other state and federal tax forms are available at the reference desk for photocopying.

The second in a five-meeting series on integrating Cross-Cultural Perspectives into the curriculum will focus on communication issues tomorrow. The half-day session in the Lower Commons will feature Dr. Maria Senour, who formerly taught here. A professor of education and counseling at Cal State, San Diego, she will discuss how to more effectively teach issues and themes associated with women and minorities. The ongoing workshops involve 41 Cal State faculty members from the Schools of Humanities and Social and Behavioral Sciences.

The Concert Choir and Chamber Singers will perform at 8:15 p.m., Sunday, March 2 in the Recital Hall. Under the direction of Dr. Loren Filbeck, the concert choir will sing Mendelssohn's "Christus," an uncompleted oratorio written in 1745 and "Toward an Unknown Region" by Ralph Vaughan Williams. The chamber singers will perform several Renaissance madrigals, similar to those that will be featured at the Renaissance dinner March 13-15. Tickets for the March 2 concert are $3 general admission and $1.50 for students.

Extended Education is announcing its spring quarter courses and providing a preview of summer sessions in the free spring quarter Bulletin, which is available at the Bookstore, Admissions and Records, the Library, Extended Education and Public Affairs.

Forty-five Hispanic students at Cal State will attend a career conference hosted by the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC), Wednesday, Feb. 26 at the Red Lion Inn in Ontario. Approximately 75 Fortune 500 corporations will attend to interview the students, who are sponsored by Student Affirmative Action.
Professional Activities

An article by Dr. Frances Coles (Criminal Justice), "Bell v. Wolfish: A Five Year Review," has been accepted by the Journal of Crime and Justice.

Marco Cota (Relations with High Schools) and Eva Jimenez (Transfer Services Center) were interviewed on the "Emfasis" program of KVIM Radio in Indio Feb. 10. They talked about the importance of a college education for Hispanics, the programs at Cal State and financial aid.

Lance Masters (Marketing, Management Science, Information Management) had his first textbook Mansym IV published in January by John Wiley and Sons.

Dr. Theodore McDowell (Geography) presented a paper, "Backcountry Water Quality and Purification of Wilderness Water," Feb. 12 at UC, Irvine. The presentation was cosponsored by the UCI Programming Board and the Cooperative Outdoor Program.

Dr. Mary Patterson (Emeritus, Nursing) participated as a panel member in a seminar on "Pursuing Doctoral Education" at Loma Linda University Feb. 12.

An article by Dr. Daniel Whitaker (Foreign Languages), "La quimera of Emilia Pardo Bazan: The Pre-Raphaelite Factor in the Regeneration of a Decadent Dandy," has been accepted by Hispania.

Community Service

Dr. Peggy Atwell (Education) has been named treasurer of the California Professors of Reading after serving two years on the board of directors.

Dr. Vivian Burton (Education) has been elected to the board of directors of the Greater Pomona Valley YWCA.

Dr. Robert Detweiler (Academic Affairs) spoke to the West San Bernardino Kiwanis Club about the university Feb. 13.

Pola Patterson (Library) spoke on "Controversy and the movie 'The Color Purple'" to a Sierra High School class Feb. 12 as part of the school's Black History Month observance.

Dr. Gilbert Sanchez (Student Affirmative Action) has been appointed to a two-year term on the Advisory Committee of the LULAC National Educational Service Center of Pomona.

Noteworthy

Marty Bloomberg (Library) has been informed that the fifth edition of his text Introduction to Technical Services for Library Technicians will be translated into Turkish.
