Three Social Science Dean Candidates Here Next Week

Three candidates for the dean of the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences will be interviewed on campus next week, announced Dr. J.C. Robinson, associate vice president of academic personnel and chair of the search committee.

"I'd like to emphasize the change in format for the candidates' meetings with administrators, faculty, staff and students," he remarked. "Based on experience with other searches, we're going to try something we've never done before and have two separate open forum sessions—one specifically for administrators and staff and another for faculty, librarians and students.

"Essentially we want to minimize the number of meetings that the candidates must attend and create an environment where a larger group of people can see each candidate in action," he added. "Each candidate will be expected to make a brief presentation on their background, experience, and academic and administrative philosophy, which will be followed by questions and answers. This will give the campus community a chance to see the candidates speak in public as well as provide an environment for more coherent questions. I urge everyone to attend the designated sessions."

Dr. Melvin Small, chair of the History Department at Wayne State University, will appear in an open forum for administrators and staff between 9 and 10 a.m., Monday, March 31 in the Panorama Room of the Lower Commons. He will meet with faculty, librarians and students in the same room from 2 to 3 p.m. He has been with the university since 1965, specializing in American diplomatic history, international relations and peace research. In addition to fellowships with the American Council of Learned Societies and the Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Sciences at Stanford, he has served as a visiting professor at the University of Michigan, Marygrove College, Windsor University and the University of Aarhus, Denmark.

Dr. Mark Abrahamson, professor of sociology at the University of Connecticut, will meet with administrators and staff from 10 to 11 a.m., Wednesday, April 2, and faculty, librarians and students between 2 and 3 p.m. Both sessions will be held in the Panorama Room. He has been with the university since 1976, although he currently is on leave and working as director of the sociology program for the National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C. He also has served as chair of the Sociology Department at Syracuse University. He has published extensively and served in an editorial capacity for several publications.

Dr. William Wallace, associate dean of the College of Arts and Science at the University of Nevada, will be available in an open forum for administrators and staff from 10 to 11 a.m., Friday, April 4, and again with faculty, librarians and students between 2 and 3 p.m. in the Panorama Room. He has been with the university since 1966, with the exception of a year's work as a visiting associate professor and research associate at the Institute of Human Learning at UC, Berkeley. A professor of psychology, he is consulting editor for the American Journal of Psychology and has performed editorial and reviewing duties for several other publications. He also holds comprehensive publishing credits.

Paychecks Will Include Savings Bond Information

Information on purchasing U.S. savings bonds through payroll deduction will be included in employee paychecks, Monday, March 31, announced Leonard Farwell, business manager.

Savings bonds carry a variable rate which makes them a good investment, he explained. The rate is based on the average yield on Treasury marketable securities and currently is 8.36 percent. The floating rate, which changes every six months, cannot fall below 7.5 percent, if the bonds are held at least five years. Since 1982, the rate has averaged 10 percent.

Participants must purchase a minimum of one $25 bond per month. The bonds, which may be redeemed after six months, are not subject to state or local taxes. Federal taxes may be deferred until the bond is cashed or reach final maturity. Bonds also are not subject to probate, if a co-owner or beneficiary is named on them.

The U.S. Treasury Department has launched a special bond drive for April 14-May 2. CSU Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds is the national chairman for higher education in the campaign.

The forms necessary to purchase savings bonds through payroll deduction are available through the Personnel Office. They must be turned in by the tenth of the month for the deduction to be made in that month's paycheck. Employees may begin the program during any month.

Admissions/Records Gear Up For Computer Assisted Registration

Approximately 7948 new and continuing students will be receiving Computer Assisted Registration (CAR) materials in the mail during the week of April 7 to assist them with advance registration for fall quarter, announced Registrar Jo Ann Von Wald.

Prospective students will be included in the earliest phase of the pre-registration procedure if they have applied for admission to the university by Friday, April 4. All students are required to consult with an academic advisor in order to participate in the first period of CAR, she said.

"For many of our students, computer assisted registration will virtually eliminate standing in line in the gymnasium to register for classes in the fall," Ms. Von Wald explained.

Students will be able to request up to nine courses and an alternate, but no more than 19.5 units for fall quarter. Course selections may be mailed or deposited in one of three locations: a blue drop box near the bus shelter, a drop slot in back of the Payroll Office outside the Administration Building or a drop container in the Evening Office and Advising Center in the Library. Students may remit registration fees at that time, or pay a non-refundable $20 deposit, which will be applied to normal course fees. The deposit is a one-time only procedure. The balance of the fees will be due August 18.

"Since many continuing students will have just registered for spring classes, we did not want to impose an undue financial hardship on them by requiring fall tuition in April," she remarked. "In succeeding quarters, students will be expected to pay the full fee as they register."

A new hotline number has been established to answer questions about the CAR system at Ext. 7303, she continued. In addition, Ms. Von Wald will conduct two information sessions for interested faculty, staff and students from 10 a.m. to noon, April 14 and 15 in the Panorama Room of the Lower Commons.
Family entertainment is at the heart of the 12th annual Theatre Festival for Young Audiences, which is being held on campus for the second year, April 10-13.

Performances will include staged plays, mime, music, dance, comedy, acrobatics, magic, juggling, puppetry, clowns and storytelling. Productions will range from well-known fables, such as "Rumpelstiltskin" and "The Frog Prince," to more modern stories, including "Ride a Blue Horse" and "A Child's Memory," based on "A Christmas Memory" by Truman Capote.

More than 30 professional and semi-professional theatre companies will perform during the four-day event, which includes two days "for kids only" April 10-11. Approximately 2500 public school children in grades 4-6 from Riverside and San Bernardino counties will be bused to the university for the festival.

The festival will be open to the public from noon to 6 p.m., Saturday, April 12, and noon to 5 p.m., Sunday, April 13. Admission will be $3 per person; $8 family ticket, which includes up to six people and $1 for each additional person; and a group rate of $2 per individual.

The festival was organized by a committee of community and campus representatives, including Dr. Ron Barnes, Dr. Amanda Sue Rudisill and Robert Howell (Theatre Arts). A banquet will be held Saturday evening in honor of Viola Spolin of Hollywood, who is an internationally known authority on improvisational theatre. Information on reservations for the banquet is available from the Theatre Arts Department at Ext. 7452.

The mysteries of Halley's Comet will be explored in a slide presentation by Ray Frauenholz of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena at 8 p.m., Thursday, April 10 in the SUMP.

The 45-minute informal talk will cover the history, composition and behavior of the famous comet, including tips on when and where to see the celestial body during April, which is the peak viewing month for the evening sky. Sponsored by the Intellectual Life Committee, the presentation is free and open to the public.

An international traveling art show, known as the Shoebox Sculpture Exhibition, will debut with a public reception from 4 to 6 p.m., Tuesday, April 8 in the Art Gallery. More than 100 artists have contributed work in small scale, many specifically for this touring exhibit which will be on display here through May 10.

Professional organist Malcolm Benson will perform in concert at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday, April 2 in the Recital Hall. Accompanied by the university's Chamber Singers, under the direction of Dr. Loren Filbeck, Benson will play several Bach chorale preludes which were featured in a Yale University premiere he attended last year.

An organist for St. Paul's Methodist Church in San Bernardino for the past 18 years, he has traveled widely and played professionally in England, Germany and Australia. Tickets for the concert are $5 general admission; $3 for students and senior citizens.
Volunteer Robot Olympics
Judges Needed April 25

Faculty, staff and administrators are invited to participate in the judging of the university’s third annual Robot Olympics, which pits elementary, junior and senior high school students in competition using robotics technology, April 25.

"Judging of events will be very similar to judging a science fair," commented Frank Slaton (Computer Center). "The emphasis will be placed on understanding of certain robotics fundamentals. Volunteer judges will be teamed with faculty from various academic departments, such as Computer Science and Teacher Education."

The events will be scheduled from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Each judge will be needed for approximately 90 minutes during the day to evaluate three or four entries from various grade levels. Computer Center staff members will manage the contests and provide judges with appropriate training for the events, Slaton explained.

Last year more than 2000 students were attracted to the competition, which is designed to increase robot awareness in local schools. Interested volunteers should contact Slaton or David Neighbours at Ext. 7293.

Some Openings At Children’s Center

A limited number of openings exist for employee child care at the Children’s Center for both day and evening hours, announced Pam Dortch. The limited part-time, full-cost positions are available on a first-come, first-serve basis, she said.

In addition, the Children’s Center is accepting applications from students for its evening service during spring quarter, which runs from 6 to 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday. The cost is $1.50 per hour for one child and $1 per hour for each additional child from the same family for evening care. Costs vary for daytime child care, she added.

"We’re also studying the possibility of starting a daytime program in the summer," she continued. "We encourage people to call us and let us know if there is interest. The hours and cost of the program are yet to be determined."

EOP Mentor Program Seeks Volunteers

Faculty and staff volunteers are needed for the university’s Mentor Program, which is designed to enhance the educational experience of freshmen who are members of underrepresented groups or considered to be "high risk" students, said Raul Valenzuela (Educational Opportunity Program).

The program endeavors to enlist 80 members of the campus community who would serve as role models and provide a support system for new freshmen in the fall, he said. The mentors would serve for one academic year. Applications are available by calling Ext. 7795 or 7395.

Model Congress Convenes Today

More than 190 students from 10 area high schools are gathering in the Commons and Library today for the annual Model Congress, sponsored by the Political Science Department. Students will draft legislation, consider it in committee meetings and then hold mock legislative sessions of the Senate and House. Twenty awards will be issued to outstanding "senators" and "representatives," said Dr. Carol Goss (Political Science).
Candidates Solicited By Associated Students

Petitions are available until April 8 for students interested in running for election as a board member or officer of Associated Students, according to Heather Seyden, elections chair. The ballot will include president, vice president and treasurer as well as representatives to be elected from each school, and interdisciplinary, special, dual and undeclared majors. Petitions are available at the Student Union desk. Elections will be held April 21-22.

Intramurals Becomes Recreational Sports

The Intramurals Program, managed by Joe Long in the Physical Education Department, has been renamed Recreational Sports and becomes a unit of the Student Services division, effective spring quarter. The change is in line with a national trend by colleges and universities to broaden the offerings and services of intramurals to include a wide spectrum of recreational sports programs, Long said. His new office is located in M-110 of Morongo Hall, the Housing Office annex, and he can be reached at Ext. 7416.

PERS Scheduling Retirement Interviews

Requests for interviews by a Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS) representative should be received by April 17 at the Los Angeles area office. A representative will conduct interviews May 15-16 at the Montclair City Hall. Interested persons should contact the Los Angeles office at (213) 620-4436.

Roma Sill To Retire

Roma Sill (Extended Education) will retire April 17 after more than 18 years with the university. With the exception of working two years part-time in the Library, the bulk of her career has been with Continuing Education.

"I stayed home for 22 years, raised my family and was active in the community," she said. "When my last child was in first grade, I decided to go back to work. I was hired by the first dean of Continuing Education because I knew the community.

"If I brought anything of value to the university it was because I took time to listen to people who came into Continuing Education with the idea that they wanted to further their education, but they didn't know what they wanted to do or what courses to take. I'm not saying I could actually advise them, but I think I sent them in the right direction."

With two of her children graduating from Cal State, Mrs. Sill has a vested interest in the university in addition to her service. "My daughter was one of the original freshmen here and she went all the way through and got her teaching credential. She met the man she married here and my second son also got his degree here.

"I may get misty when I start talking about the people here because I used to know everyone who worked here, when this office was in the Administration and Student Services Buildings," she confessed. "Now we're up here in this ivory tower and I feel as if I've missed meeting a lot of people. I've told people I have mixed emotions about retiring, but since my husband retired last month, I know I'm doing the right thing."

Roma and her husband, Sam, plan to travel with friends to Hawaii and the World's Fair. Active with her church and in the community, she said, "I'm sure there are lots of little projects I can find to do--especially working with people. I'm sure I won't sit home and knit because I really don't like knitting."

The entire campus community is invited to a retirement tea for Mrs. Sill from 3-5 p.m., Wednesday, April 9 in the Upper Commons. Those planning to attend are requested to call Extended Education at Ext. 7667 by Tuesday, April 2.
Dr. Robert Blackey (History) attended the Advanced Placement European History Test Development Committee meeting in Coral Gables, Fla., March 13-17.

Dr. Craig Blurton (Education) spoke on "The California Summer Technology Training Institutes: A Model for Developing Teachers' Skills in the Use of Technology in and Across the Curriculum" at the 6th annual Microcomputers in Education Conference March 12-14 at Arizona State University.

Two anthologies of essays on the history of the paperback, penned by Michael Burgess (Library), will be published this summer by Starmont House, Inc., of Seattle, Wash.

Dr. Rafael Correa (Foreign Languages) chaired a panel on "The Fantastic in Latin American Narrative" at the 7th annual conference on The Fantastic in the Arts held March 15 in Houston.

Leo Doyle (Art) has been elected to serve on the board of directors of the National Association of Woodturners.

Dr. J.S. (Vic) Johor (Marketing, Management Science and Information Management) presented two papers at the 1986 Southwestern Marketing Conference in Dallas. The papers were titled: "Higher Order/Oblique Factor Analysis to Develop a Taxonomic Structure of Psychographic/Life Style Variables" and "A Theoretical Conceptualization and Application of the Behavioral Bases for Market Segmentation."

Dr. Paul Johnson (Philosophy) has been invited to be one of six American Hobbes scholars to participate in a pair of conferences with six French counterparts and discuss textual issues in Hobbes studies. This year's conference will be held in June in New York City, with a succeeding conference in Paris in June 1987.

Dr. Adria Klein (Education) presented a workshop on "Readers Theatre--Turning Texts into Scripts" at the Asilomar Regional Reading Conference held March 8. In addition, she presented a paper on "Effective Inservice Education" at the Regional International Reading Conference in Reno, Nev., March 14.

Dr. Nathan Kravetz (Emeritus, Education) participated in a panel discussion of "Problems of Immigration and Education" at the Toronto meeting March 12-16 of the Comparative and International Education Society. He also taught a graduate course in International Education as an adjunct professor at USC during this past semester.

Lance Masters (Marketing, Management Science and Information Management) presented a paper, "An Example: The Use of Management Games on Microcomputers by Computer Novices," which was printed in the proceedings of the 13th annual conference of the Association for Business Simulation and Experimental Learning in Reno, Nev., March 5-7.

Clark Molstad (Management) presented a paper, "Deskilling College Teaching," at the Western Academy of Management meeting in Reno, Nev., March 21.

Drs. Pat Mullen and Katharine Busch, and Joseph Gray (Education) presented a workshop on reading comprehension entitled, "O.K. Partner! Draw..." at the 12th Far West Regional Conference of the International Reading Association in Reno, Nev., March 14.

John Nova (Art) is one of eight Southern California artists exhibiting works in a show, "Drawing: A Classical Continuum," at the Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery in Barnsdall Park March 18-April 13. He also will present a lecture on his work.
