Quentin Moses Named Administrative Fellow

Quentin Moses (Public Safety) has been selected as a CSU Administrative Fellow for the 1986-87 academic year. He is one of 11 persons appointed by the Chancellor's Office to participate in the CSU program, designed to provide opportunities for upward mobility in academic administration particularly for women and minorities. Candidates usually are assigned to a campus other than their own.

Moses is interested in a position in student services or university relations, under the fellowship, and hopes the opportunity will direct his career toward management in those areas. "Although my background and experience have been in law enforcement, I enjoy recruiting and talking to youths about the importance of education. As an investigator, I frequently deal with the public, so my experience has helped to broaden my career goals," he remarked.

A resident of Redlands, Moses hopes to affiliate with Cal Poly, Pomona. "I'm well known as an investigator here, but at a larger university like Cal Poly, Pomona, I would just be Quentin Moses, the Administrative Fellow," he added. "It will be nice to be able to put my guard down and work more at ease. Instead of looking out for the whole university, I would be concerned with just one department."

Moses holds a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Cal State and is working on his master's degree with an emphasis in public administration. He has been with the Public Safety Department seven years.

Barbecue Tickets Still Available

Tickets still are available for the all-campus spring barbecue, Sunday, June 1, on the lawn north of the Student Services Building. Reservations must be made in advance with the Special Events Office, Ext. 7943. Faculty and staff chefs will prepare the 10-ounce steaks for adults plus hamburgers for the children. Entertainment begins at 4:30 p.m., with the barbecue served from 5 to 7 p.m.
"The Threepenny Opera," the second longest-running hit in the history of American musical comedy, will be presented here in a joint production of the Theatre Arts and Music Departments May 29-31 and June 3-7.

"Mack the Knife," memorialized in the hit-parade ballad, is the raffish, cutthroat hero of the tale, set in turn-of-the-century London. Lance Rossi, a business major from Ridgecrest, will play the jaunty trifler with women and the law.

"Although characters in the play are cheats, thieves, murderers and the like, the show is not offensive," said Dr. Amanda Sue Rudisill, director. "The author's intentions are to express a witty disdain for the grotesque depths to which human beings can descend. The play, although inherently moral, is primarily entertainment."

Dr. Loren Filbeck will serve as musical director and Marte Boyle Slout, professional actress and lecturer at Cal State, will handle the choreography for the production. The setting, a colorful London underworld, will be created by Robert Howell, while Kathleen Lewicki will create the costumes.

Curtain time for "The Threepenny Opera" is 8:15 p.m. in the university theatre. Tickets are $6.50 for general admission and $3 for students and senior citizens.

The prestigious grant afforded him the opportunity to study in Paris for one year. Currently a poet-in-residence at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Dr. Santos is working on a second book of poetry. He is the author of "Accidental Weather," published in 1982.

A reception will follow the poetry reading here, which is free and open to the public. Dr. Santos' appearance is sponsored by the university's Intellectual Life Committee, Department of English and the literary magazine Pacific Review.

Juried Art Show Unveiled June 5

The annual Juried Student Art Show, which culminates the year of artistic work by some 400 Cal State students, will open with a reception from 4 to 6 p.m., Thursday, June 5 in the Art Gallery. Only 54 students will be honored with entry into the show, which runs through the summer.
Early Registration Rated As A Success

The university's first computer-assisted registration for classes is a "notable success," said Dean of Students Peter Wilson, in reporting 3007 students signed up for fall classes in the first round.

"More than 90 percent of the students received a complete schedule. In fact, 78.6 percent got exactly what they wanted," he said. "About 11 percent received a full schedule, but not all of their first choices. Another 9.1 percent were given a partial schedule. Only six students were left with no schedule."

The two major reasons for students not getting the classes requested were closed classes (49 percent of the requests denied) and time conflict (41 percent). Under the new process, which is the culmination of more than a year's work, students indicate their preferences for classes and time periods and the computer matches the requests with available slots and produces the schedule.

The first round of computer matching represents approximately the first day of registration under the old procedure of standing in lines in the gymnasium, according to Wilson. A great benefit of the system, he said, is that school deans now know which fall quarter classes are closed. They have the summer months, rather than overnight, to arrange for additional sections.

Dean Wilson praised the Task Force on Early Registration, chaired by Jo Ann Von Wald (Registrar) for the detail work as well as the training sessions held to acquaint faculty and staff with the new system. "This was an all-university effort, including the work by Barbara Harrington's office (Academic Scheduling) in getting the curriculum data processing system operational."

Students Approve 2 Fee Increases

Students last week approved increases in their fees to finance an addition to the Student Union and to provide more money for services provided by the Associated Students.

Although bond issues in the "real world" frequently fail these days, the Cal State students approved both their issues by sizeable votes, 70.5 percent for the AS increase and 68.4 percent for the Student Union.

Students carrying six units or less will feel the greatest impact from the AS increase, paying $36 a year in the future, compared to $10. All students now will be assessed the same AS fee, $36 a year and $5 in the summer. Full-time students had been paying $20 since 1977.

Activities supported by the fee include student government, book coop, special events programming, book loans, Children's Center, student newspaper, recreational sports and sports equipment rental.

The Student Union fee, up to $70 a year from $41, will support the sale of bonds to build a $1.5 million addition on the north side of the building. Funds must be accumulated for one year before construction can begin. The expansion will provide a new Pub and snack area, additional meeting rooms, a club workroom and possibly commercial areas such as a country store and barbershop.

Dean of Students Peter Wilson estimated the facility would not be ready for 2 to 2.5 years. President Evans termed the affirmative vote to enlarge the Union a "very significant step for the future of the university."

Official approval for assessing students the increased fees must come from CSU Chancellor Reynolds, after a recommendation from President Evans. As a result, the date for implementing the increase is expected to be winter quarter.
