Dr. Kaplan To Be Graduate Dean

Dr. Julius Kaplan, professor of art and department chair for six years, will assume the half-time position of associate dean for graduate studies Sept. 1. He succeeds Dr. David Lutz, who is returning to full-time teaching in the Department of Psychology.

An art historian, Kaplan came to the university in 1977 from the UCLA faculty. He has been responsible for securing a number of sizeable grants for the arts, both at Cal State and at UCLA. The funds from the California Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Humanities made possible special exhibitions and gallery catalogs written and produced by art students. He also received an Exceptional Merit Service Award here in 1984 plus research grants and fellowships at UCLA.

Dr. Kaplan, who also has taught at UC Berkeley and Colby College, earned his B.A. from Wesleyan University in Connecticut and his M.A. and Ph.D. from Columbia University.

Next year he will teach part-time in addition to assuming administrative responsibilities for graduate and postbaccalaureate programs, including recruitment of graduate students, curricular review, development of new programs, supervision of the M.A. special majors, review of graduate theses, and implementation of graduate policies and procedures.

Additional Faculty Grants Awarded

Three additional faculty professional development grants are being awarded for the coming year, in addition to the 29 announced earlier.

The latest recipients are: Dr. Frances F. Berdan (Anthropology), Dr. Wallace T. Cleaves (Psychology) and Dr. John Sarli (Mathematics).

Dr. Berdan will use the $2000 received to pay a professional artist to complete 24 drawings for the third volume of the Codex Mendoza, one of the most significant of the early Mexican pictorial documents.

Dr. Cleaves will use his $598.75 for a computerized search of literature on the structure of intelligence of retarded and normal children.

The $900 awarded Dr. Sarli will help finance travel to UC Santa Cruz to work with mathematics faculty there on an extensive problem in post-classification group theory.

Holiday

The university will celebrate the Fourth of July with a holiday from work and classes and an old-fashioned concert in the park. The musical tribute to the Fourth, by the San Bernardino Community Concert Band, will be from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Commons Plaza.
Open forums are being held for eight candidates for the new position of director of computing and information management services. One of the applicants, Herbert L. Nickles, is from campus.

The forums, open to Council of Academic Deans, faculty and administrators, will be from 10 to 11 a.m. in Meeting Rooms A and B of the Student Union. Already past are the forums for Alexander Wake, manager of the Administrative Systems Group in the Chancellor’s Office, held Wednesday, and Nickles, associate director for instructional computing here, Thursday. The candidate on campus today is James Tuccy, whose open forum will be from 1 to 2 p.m. in the Student Union. Tuccy is director of computing and information resources at the University of Denver.

The other candidates and the dates for their visits are: Monday, June 30, James Scanlon, assistant director of the Office of Computing and Information Services, University of Georgia; Tuesday, July 1, Kathryn Lapre, director of the Computer Center at Denison University; Wednesday, July 2, Jim Durkee, northern region academic manager for the University of Alaska Computer Network; Thursday, July 3, Gary Smith, director of computer services, Central Washington University; and Thursday, July 10, John Crane, director of data systems, San Diego City School District.

Two individuals in the Student Services area were granted tenure in their classifications, according to Dale West, personnel director.

They are Jeanne Hogenson, Activities Office, and Ed Schneiderhan, Career Planning and Placement Center. Tenure for faculty members was announced earlier.

The campus will be without water over the July 4 weekend, although special arrangements will be made for the Commons and Serrano Village, according to David DeMauro, director of plant operations.

Inoperative shut-off valves at each building will be replaced. The only way to shut off the water now is at the city’s line to the campus, he said, thus the entire campus will be without service. A temporary connection will be made to a city well to accommodate the food service and the housing complex, which will be occupied over the weekend.

There will be no airconditioning in buildings served by the Central Heating and Airconditioning Plant from about 5 p.m., Thursday, July 3, when work begins, until about 8 a.m., Monday, July 7. This particular weekend was chosen because the project will require about three days.

Assemblyman Bill Leonard will be on campus today. He will meet at 9:30 a.m. with senior administrators, deans, the chair of the Faculty Senate, the Associated Students president and others. Later Dr. Carol Goss (Political Science) will tape an interview for use in one of her political science classes.
Architect Named Facilities Planner

A Chinese-American architect, most recently from Pittsburgh, will become the university's director of facility planning and policy coordination July 1, assuming part of the responsibilities held by the recently retired James H. Urata.

He is William F. Shum, who was a project architect with a Pittsburgh architectural firm and was responsible for budgeting, contract administration, construction observation and design of contract documents. Earlier he was a designer for a firm of architects in Beckley, W.Va., and worked on public school projects.

Shum, who was born in Hong Kong, graduated from St. Francis Xavier High School there and then earned his bachelor of engineering degree, with a specialization in architecture, from National Cheng Kung University in Taiwan in 1975. He received his master's degree in architecture from Carnegie-Mellon University in 1978 and is working on an M.B.A. from the University of Pittsburgh.

His wife, Cynthia, has a bachelor's degree in liberal arts from Taiwan Normal University and was employed by the power company in Pittsburgh, until their move to California earlier this summer. The family, which includes a son, Wei, is temporarily living in Santa Ana but hopes to move to San Bernardino.

Shum will be responsible for planning the major and minor capital outlay programs for the campus, for maintaining liaison with architects assigned to various projects on campus, for representing the university at city and county meetings involving developments in the area, and for working with other offices on space allocations.

The Facilities Planning and Policy Coordination Office will be located in Rooms 161 and 163 in the Student Services Office. Joyce Alta, who was Urata's secretary, will join Shum there. The phone number will be the same as Urata's, Ext. 7411.

Public Affairs Divided

The Public Affairs Office has been split into two separate offices, Publications and Media Relations and Public Information, Executive Dean Judith M. Rymer announced.

Edna Steinman, who has been director of public affairs, is now the director of publications and will continue to have the responsibility for all publications prepared for the university and for the campus-wide printing budget.

Cynthia Pringle, who has been the public affairs assistant for the past year, is now director of media relations and public information. She will work with the print and broadcast media and general requests for university information.

The Publications Office will remain in AD 117, however, the telephone number will be changed to Ext. 7814 in about a week. Graphic Artist Becky Roe will move from AD 106 to the Publications Office during July.

Mrs. Pringle and secretary Ruth Moran will move into AD 104, the Executive Dean's Office, also during July. They will retain the Ext. 7558 previously assigned to Public Affairs.

The Alumni Affairs Office will move Monday from its present quarters in SS 161 and 163 to the Executive Dean's Office in AD 104. The telephone extension for Joanna Roche, alumni director, and Cecelia McCarron, secretary, will remain Ext. 7811. The phone company is expected to change the phones next week.

Summer Session
Enrollment Up 15%

Although late registration continues, first day figures show this year's summer session running 15 percent above last year, according to Dr. Lee Porter, dean of extended education.

First day registration figures for this year totaled 1462 persons, compared to 1270 for the same day last year. More growth was shown in education classes, although business also was very strong. Fewer classes were cancelled because of low enrollment than in the past, Dr. Porter said. Summer session continued to be heavily supported by on-going students, who represent about 65-70 percent of the enrollment.

Registrations for Sessions II and III, which begin July 28, are being accepted at the Admissions Office.

Child Care Workers
Complete Program

Twenty-three minority women from San Bernardino, Riverside and the Coachella Valley were honored in a special graduation ceremony June 21, for completing the course work in the 1986 Children's Center Permit Training Project.

The state-funded project, in its third year, provides paraprofessional training for currently employed workers in state child care facilities and emphasizes working with ethnically and linguistically different children. Dr. Louise Burton (Education) has coordinated the program through the Office of Extended Education. More than 100 family members and friends attended the ceremony, hosted by Extended Education. Dr. Ernest Garcia (Education) presented the certificates.
Gladys Wilson Retires
After 21 Years

The voice which thousands of people have heard answering the Cal State telephone—"State College" and then "State University"—will retire June 30. Gladys Wilson, the campus' first and primary switchboard operator, will hang up her headset after 21 years.

Mrs. Wilson began her job as central switchboard operator one month before the college moved to the present site in September 1965. "At that time, I knew everybody on campus and what their numbers were," she said. Now she recalls most of the departments and various offices, but finds many numbers change as offices are moved around and new people are added.

Originally a part of the Personnel Office, Mrs. Wilson switched to the Purchasing Office when the campus converted to Centrex and helped with work in that office. She still receives all calls coming to the information number and on the "6" line.

A native of San Bernardino, Mrs. Wilson and her husband Tom, who is retired from the Southern California Gas Co., will continue to make their home in San Bernardino. They plan to travel to a square dance week in northern California in July and then she will try to catch up with her hobbies and other projects at home.

Faculty Office Building
Ground Breaking July 11

Preceded by appropriate ground breaking ceremonies, construction of the new $2.1 million faculty office building will begin Friday, July 11.

Assemblyman Bill Leonard, who has helped the campus with legislation and funding, will be the special guest for the ground breaking ceremonies set for 9:30 a.m. The site for the building, and the ceremony, will be in a triangle between the Administration Building, the Physical Sciences Building and the Pfau Library. Campus offices will not be closed for the ceremony but anyone who is on break is invited to attend, said Executive Dean Judith M. Rymer, who will preside. City and county officials are being invited to attend.

Contractor for the construction of the two-story facility which will accommodate 81 faculty offices and the Schools of Education and Social and Behavioral Sciences is Nielsen Construction Co., Irvine. Occupancy is expected by late summer 1987.

New Parking Decals
Issued Monday

Parking decals for the 1986-87 year will be issued in paychecks Monday for year-around, full-time employees. The decals, designed by Becky Roe, university graphic artist, will bear the mountain design seen on many student publications.

Hangers have been ordered for the new size decals and are expected on campus early in July, said Harry Larsen, parking services manager for the Department of Public Safety. They will be available at no charge at the Bursar's window, the Department of Public Safety or the Student Union. Because of the shipping delay, parking officers will honor annual decals for the past year until July 10, Larsen said. After that date, the new decals must be displayed.

Faculty who are teaching this summer will need to purchase a summer decal, reminds Kathy McCarrell in the Accounting Office. The fee for the full summer is $22.50. Lesser amounts are charged for shorter sessions. Another option for the less frequent visitor is the 75 cent daily parking ticket.
