Beginning Friday, March 27, the Library goes to quarter-break hours of 8 a.m.—5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The Library is closed March 28—29 and April 5, but is open from 9 a.m.—1 p.m., April 4, because Saturday classes begin that day. Other classes begin Monday, April 6.

The Commons will close after dinner next Thursday, March 26 and will reopen April 2. To serve staff and faculty on campus during the break, the Snack Bar in the Student Union will provide food service 10 a.m.—2 p.m., Monday—Friday, March 27—April 3.

Student Develops Heart Learning Center

New to the Health Fair Expo, to be held on campus Sunday, April 5, will be the Heart Learning Center, developed by Joan McCandless, a senior in health science. Ms. McCandless was the student on-site coordinator for the Health Fair in 1985.

The primary goal of the Heart Learning Center is to assist individuals to reduce the risk of heart disease by making informed decisions for their heart health. This is done by identifying the relative risk of heart disease for each individual. Participants will view a short film, complete a heart risk appraisal, learn to take their own pulse, evaluate personal health behaviors and talk to a counselor.

A variety of free health screenings is available at the Health Fair, which will operate from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the gymnasium. Additional activities will include a 5K-10K run, co-sponsored by the American Heart Association, a rescue helicopter demonstration by the Sheriff's Department, hearing and glaucoma screenings and exercise physiology screenings by the university Physical Education Department.

Claim Lost Items Before March 25

If you've lost a watch, a calculator, books, valuable class notes or clothing on campus during the past nine months, the item may be resting in the lost and found depository at Campus Police. Now, however, the cupboard is full and the older unclaimed items (found between July 1 and Nov. 30, 1986) will be given to charity.

The lost owners will be given until Wednesday, March 25 to claim property returned in between the above dates, advises Harry Larsen. Any one who has lost property, regardless of the time, is asked to call Campus Police, Ext. 7555, to see if the items might be in their possession.

Unclaimed items of any value are given to a charity; class notes, family pictures and the like are shredded and cash is given to the Foundation for a scholarship fund.
