Voyager Pilots To Speak Here

Voyager pilots Richard Rutan and Jeana Yeager, the first persons to fly an aircraft around the world without refueling, will talk about their historic experience at 8 p.m., Tuesday, April 21 in the Gymnasium.

The two, who hold individual world records, completed the first nonstop flight Dec. 23, 1986. Covering 25,012 miles, they were in the air nine days, three minutes and 44 seconds flying at an average speed of 115.8 miles per hour. The Voyager, made of stiffened paper and plastic, was filled with nearly 9000 pounds of fuel, weighing three times as much as the craft itself.

Rutan, a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, was production manager and chief test pilot for his brother Burt, who developed research aircraft in Mojave. Yeager has 14 years of experience in engineering design, drafting and illustration.

Advance tickets for the talk, available at the Student Life Office, SS 122, are $5, general admission, and $3, students. Prices at the door will be $6 and $4.

2 More Finalists Called for Interviews

Two additional candidates have been added to the list of finalists for the dean of social and behavioral sciences, said Dr. Ward M. McAfee, chair of the search committee. Six men will be interviewed on campus for the position, to be filled with the beginning of the fall quarter in September.

Dr. Scott H. Decker, chair of the Department of Administration of Justice at the University of Missouri, St. Louis, was to be here yesterday. A criminologist, he has taught at UMSL for 10 years and at Indiana University, Ft. Wayne for one year. He has M.A. and Ph.D. in criminal justice from Florida State University.

Here on Monday, April 20 will be Dr. Paul Zelhart, associate vice president for academic programs and services at East Texas State University. Open forums for the campus community to meet him are set for 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. in Student Union Rooms A-B. Dr. Zelhart, a psychologist, also has taught at Fort Hays (Kansas) State University, University of Alberta, Canada, University of Arkansas and USC. His field is experimental clinical psychology, and he has received research awards.

The last of the original four candidates, Dr. Aubrey W. Bonnett, associate professor of sociology in the City University of New York and Hunter College, is on campus today, Friday. The open forums will be at 11 and 2 p.m., in the same Student Union rooms.

Spring Enrollment Holds Strong

As of the last day to add classes, 7,213 students had enrolled for spring quarter, Registrar Jo Ann Von Wald reported. While the figure will drop before census date, which is the last day to drop, the total will remain a spring quarter record.

This spring's student body is 11.89 percent larger than the same date last spring. The percentage of gain, while slightly less than spring 1986, is still the second highest in the past six years. The official enrollment figures for the quarter will be computed on census day, April 24.
Team Receives NEH Grant

Three representatives from the School of Humanities will be among 25 teams from throughout the United States participating in a National Endowment for the Humanities summer institute next August. Awarded an NEH grant to participate were Dr. Beverly Hendricks, dean, and Dr. Harry Hellenbrand, English, and Dr. Tom Moody, Philosophy.

The institute on humanities scholarship and instruction for nontraditional students will be Aug. 3-9 at the University of Minnesota. Seminars, discussion groups and a series of updates in the humanities will be presented by distinguished speakers. The team hopes to be able to develop several new courses for nontraditional learners and perhaps an M.A. in humanities, said Dean Hendricks.

The selection committee said the university's commitment to humanities instruction and interest in nontraditional students, such as minorities and older individuals, gave special strength to the team's application.

Summer Session Bulletins Available

"Picture summer at CSUSB" proclaims the Summer Session Bulletin issued by Extended Education and now available to anyone interested in earning academic credits during the summer months.

Five modules—three weeks, five weeks, eight weeks and 10 weeks—are scheduled between June 29 and Sept. 10. Registration for the summer sessions will be held June 24-25 in the Creative Arts Building. Priority times are based on last names.

Fees for summer session, which must be self-supporting, are $49 per unit for a regular lecture class, $59 per unit for science lab classes and $98 per unit for education field work. All students must pay Associated Students, Student Union and health fees totaling $15.50 plus parking.

Classes are planned in 30 majors, with graduate and undergraduate credit available. Classes will be taught in various times of the day. Admission to the university is not required for enrollment in summer session.

Copies of the summer bulletin are available from Extended Education, fifth floor of Pfau Library, or Publications Office, AD 117. Further information on enrollment is available by calling Extended Education, Ext. 7527.

Recital Postponed

The faculty artist recital by Dr. Larry McFatter and Dr. Raymond Torres-Santos, originally scheduled for Sunday evening, April 26, has been postponed until May 14.

Computer Survey Information Sought

Jim Scanlon, director of Computing and Information Management Services, will be surveying faculty to learn of their desires for microcomputing services. He wishes to talk with faculty about hardware and software procurement and support standards. Interested faculty are asked to call Scanlon at Ext. 7293, the Computer Center.
L.A. Times Reporter Speaks to Library Group

Howard Rosenberg, television critic for the Los Angeles Times, will discuss "How to Watch Eight Hours of TV a Day and Survive--Barely" here Sunday, May 3. His talk, sponsored by the Library Associates support group, is free and open to the public. A reception on the first floor of Pfau Library will precede the talk, to begin at 2:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall.

A Pulitzer Prize-winning critic and columnist, Rosenberg also has appeared on national television and has articles published in Rolling Stone, Washington Journalism Review and Sunday Times of London. His regular column is distributed nationally to 600 papers on the L.A. Times/Washington Post Wire. Rosenberg received the Pulitzer Prize for criticism in 1985, a Headliner Award for best national column in 1984, the Windwalker Award in 1983 and the Los Angeles Times award for editorial excellence in 1981.

Children’s Center Hosts Easter Egg Hunt Tomorrow

Children of all ages are invited to the Egg Hunt and Spring Carnival from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Children’s Center, said Parr Dortch, director. The only entrance requirement is to have an egg-gathering basket.

After the egg hunt, beginning at 10:15 a.m., the children will be entertained with games, balloons, prizes, candy and refreshments plus a visit by a life-size bunny. The event, the fourth annual, is co-sponsored by the Cal State Associates and the Intramural Program.

The Children’s Center Advisory Board will sponsor a bazaar and baked goods sale with proceeds going to the center. Free fingerprinting of the youngsters will be available by Campus Police from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Alpha Delta Pi sorority will assist the center staff in carrying out the activities.

Cinco de Mayo Events Begin with Awards Banquet

A scholarship awards banquet hosted by the Hispanic Faculty and Staff Association Saturday evening, April 25 will launch three weeks of Cinco de Mayo-related activities which conclude with talks by Henry Cisneros, mayor of San Antonio, on May 6 and Cesar Chavez, president of the United Farmworkers of America, May 8.

The awards banquet, which begins with social hour at 6:30 p.m., includes a talk by Dr. Manuel Rivera, president of San Bernardino Valley College; presentation of scholarship awards and a dance.

During the following week, April 27-30, a series of noon lectures will be free and open to the public. The schedule includes: Monday, April 27, Dr. Fred A. Lopez III, assistant professor of political science at Cal State, Bakersfield, speaking on "United States Intervention in Central America: A Chicano Perspective"; Tuesday, April 28, Bea Hernandez, community activist, "La Chicana: Woman of the Past, Heroine of Tomorrow"; Wednesday, April 29, Joe Moran, professor of art, slide lecture, "Chicanos: The Unseen Artists"; and Thursday, April 30, Manuel Caldera, president of the Caldera Company, and Frank Dominguez, president of Vanier Group, "Trends in the Hispanic Market." All will be in the Sycamore Room of the Commons, except for Professor Moran's illustrated talk which will be in VA 110.

The Cinco de Mayo Fiesta, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., May 1 in the Commons patio, will feature a Mexican buffet luncheon, Latin Society Band, Mixocoacalli Folklorico Group and Teatro Aztlan from Cal State, Northridge presenting "The Decade of the 80s--A Broken Promise" at 2:30 p.m. in the Recital Hall.

Dr. Carmen Tafolla, a Chicana poet, will speak at noon, May 4 in the Recital Hall. Mayor Cisneros' talk, free and open to the public, will begin at 7 p.m., May 6 in the Upper Commons. Chavez will speak at 9:30 a.m., May 8 in the SUMP.
Caps and Gowns
Rentals Due Soon

If it's April, can commencement be far behind? Not when it comes to ordering caps and gowns for the annual commencement exercises.

Faculty planning to participate in the university's 21st commencement exercises June 20 may begin placing orders for caps and gown on Monday, April 27, the Bookstore announced. Their deadline for renting the official regalia is May 8.

Requests from students will be accepted from May 18 until June 12. Both they and the faculty will pick up their items from June 15 to June 19.

Faculty with master's degrees who rent the entire outfit (cap, gown, hood and tassel) pay $14.50 while the hood or gown alone is $7.25. The doctoral cap, gown, hood and tassel is rented for $16.50 or $8.25 for hood or gown or cap and gown (without hood). Credit cards will not be accepted for cap and gown rental, the Bookstore warned.

Members of the Class of 1987 may purchase their commencement invitations and diploma covers from the Bookstore.

Child Abuse Workshop Draws 150 to Campus

Dentists, physicians, nurses, counselors, psychologists, social workers and teachers were among the 150 professionals attending the April 7 workshop "Child Abuse: Identification, Reporting, Intervention and Prevention."

Co-sponsored by the Office of Extended Education and the new Center for Children in Crisis at St. Bernardine Hospital, the workshop featured presentations on the medical, legal, social work and psychological considerations of assault against children. New state laws mandate coursework for relicensure or certification of various professionals beginning this year.

Academic Survival Workshop Planned

A day-long workshop open to any student, titled "Move from Academic Survival to Academic Excellence," will be held Saturday, May 2 under the sponsorship of the Educational Opportunity Program, the Office of Statewide Health Planning and Development and the Charles R. Drew Postgraduate Medical School at Martin King Jr. General Hospital in Los Angeles.

While information will be provided on internships and careers in the health sciences, the focus of the program is "to help students look at ways to take charge of their academic life instead of just hanging on," said Walter Hawkins (EOP). The special speaker will be Angelica Braestrup, who is employed by the Educational Testing Service in addition to serving as a consultant. She has worked with athletes at Georgetown University, which has one of the highest graduation rates for its athletes, explained Hawkins.

Reservations for the workshop, to be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in PS 10, should be made with the EOP Office, Ext. 7395, by April 29. The program is open to students from other schools and to any one interested in exploring a career change or re-entry into college, Hawkins said. The speakers will be available on campus Friday, May 1 to meet with faculty or staff interested in the problems of helping students to achieve academically. Information is available from Hawkins.

Overton Scholarship Created by CBFSA

The balance of the retirement gift fund for the late John Overton (Plant Operations) has been donated to the California Black Faculty and Staff Association for a scholarship in his name. The fund was used to purchase a floral wreath for the funeral and a magnolia tree planted at his home, at the request of his widow, CBFSA officials said. The remaining $420 was given to the scholarship fund. A $500 scholarship will be awarded in May.
Bicentennial, Other Lecturers Slated

Two Monday lectures in the Political Science Department-sponsored series on the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution, a visiting faculty presentation and other speakers are on the docket for the next two weeks on campus.

Dr. Leonard W. Levy from the Department of History at the Claremont Graduate School will make a return visit to campus when he speaks at 8 p.m., Monday, April 20 in the bicentennial series. His free lecture, to begin at 8 p.m. in the Panorama Room, is "The Founder (Madison) and the Original Intent." Speaking at 8 p.m., Monday, April 27 will be Dr. Joyce O. Appleby, UCLA professor of history. Her topic is "Celebrating the Constitution." This lecture also will be in the Panorama Room.

Dr. Tatiana Galvan, visiting Fulbright scholar in communication, will speak at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 23 in the Sycamore Room. She will discuss "The Cultural Impact of Mass Media in the World Today." Professor Galvan is a professor in communication at the Universidad Nacional Autonoma de Mexico in Mexico City and a former broadcast journalist in Mexico City.

The officials in the health science field will speak to classes on two different occasions. Dr. Charles Senn, UCLA professor emeritus of public health, and Dr. Jose Tacal, public health veterinarian for San Bernardino County, will speak at 6 and 8 p.m., April 23. Dr. Ralph Cooper, director of California Veterinary Health Sciences, will speak at 6 p.m., April 30. Both sessions, held in PS 133, also are open to interested individuals.

Two lectures are now scheduled for Dr. Bertram M. Gross, educator, author and first executive secretary of the U.S. Council of Economic Advisors. On Thursday, April 23, an added event, he speak at 6:30 p.m., in the Panorama Room on the topic "A Global Epidemic: Joblessness." The following day, April 24, he will speak at a no-host buffet luncheon at noon in Student Union Rooms A-B. His subject will be "The Rise and Fall of 'Full Employment.'" Dr. Gross was a principle drafter of the 1946 Full Employment Act. The luncheon is open to the entire campus community but prepaid reservations must be made by April 22 with Jennifer McMullen in the School of Business and Public Administration. The cost is $5.50 per person.

Dr. Harold Hodgkinson, senior fellow of the American Council on Education, will be on campus Thursday morning, April 30 to speak to local educators. He also will speak to classes at a public meeting at 10 a.m. in the Sycamore Room on the general topic of educational issues.

Touring Theatre Entertains 5,555

The seven students in Dr. William Slout's Touring Theatre class entertained 5,555 high school students in 34 performances at area high schools during the winter quarter. They traveled 940 miles and spent anywhere from several hours to an entire day at a school.

Divided into two units, the Blue and the Red, the students spent fall quarter developing their material, writing the scripts, preparing sets and sound effects and rehearsing. The touring was done during winter quarter. The productions were titled "Spin: the Game of Life" and "This Way to Some Where," an exploration of where a group of students were 10 years after graduation from high school.

Contacts in the high schools are made through the drama instructors. In some instances, other classes are invited to attend. At Riverside Poly High School, for example, the Touring Theatre spent the entire school day, performing for all English classes.

The two-quarter Touring Theatre class, open to all students, has been taught by the Theatre Arts Department for many years.

Applications Available For CSU Institutes

Information and application forms are now available in the Office of Academic Personnel, AD 109, for the Summer Institutes for CSU Faculty. Nine one- or two-day seminars will be held at Kellogg West Conference Center at Cal Poly, Pomona June 22-26.

Attendance at the workshops is limited, some to as few as 12 faculty. The CSU coordinator will notify the campus if its applicants can be accommodated. Academic Personnel may send the faculty applications to the Chancellor's Office beginning May 11; however, early submission of the form to the campus office is helpful. Expenses for the participants, who must be full-time faculty, are borne by the CSU or campus.

Topics for the institutes include effective teaching, undergraduate education, library research through microcomputers, critical thinking, implementing planned change, cross-cultural approaches and grant proposal development.

Student Killed In Auto Accident

A student from Indonesia, Jamin Gomaidi, was killed in an auto accident March 28 in Arizona. He came to campus in the fall of 1984 in the American Culture and Language Program and enrolled in the university as a computer science major after passing the TOEFL exam.

A memorial service, with his parents here, was held April 7.
