Woman to be New Athletic Director

Daryl Ann Leonard, director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee for the past five years, will become the university's athletic director Sept. 1.

She succeeds Dr. Reginald Price, who developed the athletic program and has guided it to national prominence in four years. Dr. Price will return to full-time teaching in the Physical Education Department.

Under a reorganization, the athletic director will become a full-time position reporting directly to the university president. The position was half-time until 1987-88, when it became three-quarter time. The AD reported to the dean of the School of Natural Sciences.

"Dr. Price has served the university well in the development of its young athletic program," said President Anthony H. Evans. "As the university continues to grow we look forward to increased community involvement in and support for our athletic program, which adds a dimension to the students' total university experience and offers some entertainment value for the local community as well," he said.

Ms. Leonard has 15 years of experience as an athletic director and assistant director. In her recent post she oversaw 14 men's and women's intercollegiate sports and a comprehensive intramural and club sports program. She developed a long-range plan to upgrade UWM's sports from NCAA Division III to Division II. The university's men's soccer team was in Division I.

The new AD has an M.A. in physical education from Western Michigan University and a B.S. in mathematics from Principia College in Illinois. She began her career as director of women's athletics at Bentley College in Massachusetts for five years before joining UWM.

"I am excited about this opportunity because I know the program has had a lot of success and I am totally impressed with the administration and coaching staff at Cal State," Ms. Leonard said. "Athletics can be a great picture window for the university in general and I will be attempting to develop more visibility for the program in the community."

Music Series Opens July 6

For people who enjoy a variety of music, picnicking and a summer evening in the park, the place to be on Wednesday evenings in July and August is the area surrounding the Commons Plaza.

The free summer concerts begin July 6 with the annual "bluegrass blowout," said Randy Harrell (Student Life), coordinator of the series. The five-member group Shadow Mountain will share the program with the Butterfield Country Cloggers.

The Wednesday evening programs begin at 7 p.m. The campus community and the public are invited to bring picnic baskets and blankets and enjoy the park-like setting.

Shadow Mountain, formed four years ago, has performed at Knott's Berry Farm and the Festival of Champions in Phoenix. Mike Nadolson, lead guitarist and vocalist, is the two-time winner of the Arizona State Flatpick Guitar Championship. An evening of Celtic and Gaelic music, folklore and humor will be presented July 13 by the Gael Force. Featured guest with the five-member group will be Dennis Doyle, a harpist. The traditional Irish music will include bagpipes.

The summer series is sponsored by the Associated Students and the Student Union.

Upcoming programs include:
- Daz Patterson and the West Coast Singers, gospel music, July 20;
- Faculty Woodwind Quintet, July 27;
- Strings of Glass, guitar duo, Aug. 3;
- Marley's Ghost, traditional folk music, Aug. 10; Latin Society, contemporary Latin jazz, Aug. 17; folksinger Sam Hinton in a return engagement Aug. 24; and the San Diego Navy Brass Quintet, Aug. 31.

Summer Sessions Set Records

Three summer sessions began Monday, with the highest summer registration ever. Although figures are not complete, a significant increase is expected, reports Dr. Lee Porter, dean of Extended Education.

The initial sessions run five, eight and ten weeks. Sessions of three and five weeks will begin on Aug. 4. A broad range of courses, carrying university credit, is offered during the summer program which is directed by Extended Education. The variety of time modules—mornings, afternoons, evenings, two or four days a week—and offerings from 27 departments permit maximum flexibility for students pursuing degrees or seeking professional credits.

Additional registrations for the two sessions beginning in August will be accepted July 25-29 in the Admissions Office.
Dean Bonnett
At Harvard

Dr. Aubrey W. Bonnett, dean of the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences, is one of 85 academic administrators attending Harvard University’s 1988 Management Development Program.

The two-week program, from June 26 through July 8, is designed for mid-career administrators in education who are seeking an intensive exposure to management principles and skills. The curriculum covers management, leadership and future issues in education.

The application process was very competitive, according to Dr. Sharon McDade, director of Harvard’s Institute of Educational Management, which conducts the program.

Choir On Tour
In Europe

The Concert Choir, directed by Dr. Loren Filbeck, currently is on a two-week, seven-concert tour of Europe.

The 31 choir members, accompanied by family and friends, will sing in cathedrals in Germany, Switzerland and Austria. Their program includes church music, much in Latin and German, as well as American spirituals, which the Europeans enjoy, Dr. Filbeck said. “It’s fun to sing in those churches because their large spaces and stone structures are so resonant,” he noted. “The visual atmosphere is rich too. We’re going to sing every chance we get.”

The tour, which cost about $65,000, was financed by fund-raising activities sponsored by the Music Department, by the Instructionally Related Activities Fund and the choir members themselves.

Advising Center
Open in Summer

The Advising Center will be open throughout much of the summer, with faculty available to discuss academic scheduling and other problems with new or returning students.

In the schedule for July 5-29, the office is open daily from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. From Aug. 1 to Aug. 18, faculty will be available Monday through Thursday. The schedule is cut to three days, Monday-Wednesday, Aug. 22-24. Some evening appointments will be available.

Students desiring to confer with someone from a specific area are advised to call for appointments because representatives of the various disciplines will be available at different times, said Dr. Robert Lee, center director.

The Advising Center is located in Room 107 of the Pfau Library.

Planning to Begin
For Social Work
M.S.W. Degree

With the appointment of a director this fall, the university will begin planning a new graduate program in social work.

Dr. Morley Glicken, executive director of the Jewish Family Services of Greater Tucson, will join the faculty Sept. 1 to begin developing a master of social work degree.

Glicken will become chair of a new Department of Social Work, when it is established in the fall of 1989. In the coming year, he will recruit two more faculty and the first students for the program.

In addition to his professional work in the field, Dr. Glicken was chair of the master’s program in social work at the University of Alabama and has taught at the University of Kansas, Arizona State University and Wilfrid Laurier University in Canada.

“We expect Dr. Glicken will develop a program that will address the social problems of the area with particular emphasis on the needs of minority and elderly citizens,” said Dr. Aubrey Bonnett, dean of the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences, where the new department will be located. Glicken will have an academic appointment as professor of sociology.

Another Graduate

The list of university employees receiving degrees at the June 18 commencement, as contained in the last Bulletin, should have included Heidi Barlow from Accounting.

Miss Barlow joined the Accounting Office staff after receiving her B.A. in communication with highest honors at the end of the fall quarter.

Alumnus Heads
State Council

He had been president-elect the past year. The CSU Alumni Council, composed of representatives of alumni organizations on the 19 campuses, represents more than 1.2 million graduates of the system. Its goal is to advance the welfare of the CSU and to promote the educational interests of its graduates.
