One of the university's newest degree programs, the B.S. in foods and nutrition, has been accredited for 10 years by the American Dietetic Association.

Technically the ADA has accredited the formal course work in dietetics within the B.S. in foods and nutrition, explained Dean James D. Crum (Natural Sciences). Known as the Didactic Program in Dietetics, Plan V, the accredited major prepares students for careers in foods, nutrition or dietetics or for entry to graduate school. They will be eligible for the internship, conducted in a clinical setting under a registered dietician, and may sit for the registered dietician examination.

The university acquired a bonus this fall with the new chair of the Department of Health Science and Human Ecology, because Dr. Jorge Sintes has a doctorate in nutrition from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Another faculty member in nutrition will be added next fall. Dr. Butterworth also is starting to develop relationships with facilities which will accept Cal State students for the clinical aspects of the program, Dr. Crum said.

The latest achievement brings the number of accredited programs at the university to five: chemistry, nursing, art, rehabilitation counseling and now dietetics.
Loan Program for Minorities Announced

Forgivable loans for women and minorities pursuing doctoral degrees in select fields will be made available by the CSU in 1989, if the Board of Trustees approves the 1989-90 lottery revenue budget.

Pending the approval of funding, the CSU is seeking applications for the program which is designed to increase the number of women and minority faculty members with doctoral degrees. Special emphasis will be given to fields in which these groups are severely underrepresented—life and physical sciences, mathematics, computer science and engineering.

Now in its third year, the program is designed to support approximately 100 doctoral students for a maximum of three years.

The loans of up to $10,000 a year will be converted to grants if the student is appointed to a full-time faculty position in the CSU. The entire loan will be forgiven if the individual teaches for five years on a CSU campus.

Each loan recipient is required to have a sponsoring CSU faculty member. The CSU will endeavor to match unsponsored applicants with faculty members.

"Sponsorship is intended to insure, to the extent possible, that doctoral students who will have incurred an indebtedness of up to $30,000 will have reasonable prospects of securing faculty employment in the CSU and thereby having their loans forgiven," said the Chancellor’s Office.

The deadline for applications from both unsponsored candidates and for requests from campuses for students to sponsor is Feb. 24. Campus nominees are due at the Chancellor’s Office by April 28. Announcement of the persons selected to participate will be made by June 30.

Applicants without sponsors will be accepted from the CSU, the University of California and other doctoral-granting institutions.

Application forms and further information are available from Dr. J. C. Robinson (Academic Personnel), AD 109, Ext. 7510, or the Chancellor’s Office.

Foreign Film Series Begins Saturday, Jan. 14

The university will revive its once popular foreign film series with eight offerings during the winter and spring quarter.

The films, to be shown at 8:15 p.m. on Saturday evenings in PS 10, are free to the campus and the public.

“I think the area is hungry for foreign films,” said Dr. Beverly Hendricks (Humanities). “We have a wonderful assortment of relatively modern films that one might not be able to get at the video store.”

First in the series will be "Man Facing Southeast," a 1986 film in Spanish with English subtitles, to be shown Jan. 14. Directed by an Argentinean, it is the story of a disillusioned psychiatrist in a Buenos Aires mental hospital whose life is changed by a mysterious patient who claims to be from another planet. The film, in color, has an R rating.

The next three films are award winners, all in color and rated PG.

“Careful He Might Hear You,” described as brilliantly acted and exquisitely photographed, won eight Australian film awards. In this film, to be shown Feb. 11, a six-year-old boy becomes the pawn in a bitter custody battle.

The Grand Prize winner at the 1981 Cannes Film Festival, "Man of Iron," will be shown Feb. 25. This Polish film with English subtitles, depicts the turbulent coexistence of labor, the Catholic church and communism.

The March 11 movie, "Mon Oncle D’Amerique," tells of two men and a woman who share a dream that a rich American uncle will change their lives.

The spring quarter offerings will include the Indian film, "The Adversary," April 8; an Italian war film, “The Night of the Shooting Stars,” April 22; “Germany, Pale Mother,” May 6; and "Small Change," directed by Francois Truffaut, on June 3.

The series is funded by the Instructionally Related Program (IRP) fees paid by students.

Newsman to Speak at Economic Forecast

Kevin Phillips, a CBS news commentator during the presidential race, will discuss business and the 1988 election at the economic forecast breakfast Thursday, Jan. 19 on campus.

Reservations for the breakfast, which begins at 7:30 a.m. in the Upper Commons, must be made at the School of Business and Public Administration by Tuesday, Jan. 17. The cost is $30.

However, faculty and students will pay only $10 for the entire forecast breakfast. Members of the campus community may come to hear Phillips without charge at 10 a.m. on a space-available basis.

Appearing one day before the nation inaugurates its 41st president, Phillips will discuss his predictions on the role the new administration will play in determining how far tax increases and economic regulations advance. Phillips, a member of the Wall Street
Homecoming Set
For Jan. 26-28

A special reunion for Cal State alumni who graduated five, 10, 15 and 20 years ago will be a new feature of the annual winter Homecoming set for Jan. 26-28.

While all graduates of the university are invited to the reception, from 5 to 6 p.m. in the small gymnasium, a special effort is being made to bring back the anniversary classes, explained Mary C. Colacurcio (Alumni Affairs).

"Anyone knowing of a 'lost' alumnus from these years is asked to call the Alumni Office with their correct address," she said.

Launching Homecoming will be the appearance of Pat Riley, head coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, Thursday, Jan. 26. Riley will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Gymnasium on "Mission Motivation." The event is free to the campus community; others pay $3 admission.

Special activities for the students will include the Club Fest from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., Friday, Jan. 27 in the Lower Commons patio.

Three basketball games are on tap for Homecoming. The men face Dominican College at 8 p.m., Friday, Jan. 27. UC Santa Cruz is the Coyotes’ opponent on Saturday, Jan. 28. The women tip off at 6 p.m., followed by the men’s match at 8 p.m.

General admission for the ball games is $2 general, $1 for Cal State faculty and staff, $1 for other students and free for Cal State students.

The Alumni Office, Ext. 7811, has more information on the festivities. Homecoming buttons may be purchased at the Alumni Office, AD 104, the Bookstore or the Student Union.

University in Joint Program

A joint grant project to help instructional aides become classroom teachers will involve Cal State, San Bernardino, College of the Desert and three high school districts (Palm Springs, Desert Sands and Coachella Valley).

"The Teach Project," funded by the community colleges’ chancellor’s office, will explore ways in which instructional community assistants can more easily enter programs to become classroom teachers.

Dr. Catherine Gannon, director of the Cal State’s Coachella Valley Center, is the university’s liaison officer.

Endowment Announced

The Barbara A. Taylor Memorial Scholarship Fund has been established in the Foundation to honor the late employee of the Foundation, reports Beverly Dyer (Foundation).

Memorials from family, friends and campus employees established the endowment fund which now totals $2093. The interest will be used for a scholarship for a full-time student from Fontana, preferably a Fontana High graduate.

Mrs. Taylor, who died July 20, 1988, had been employed by the Foundation for 12 years.
Japan Visit Pays

Cal State expects to have at least four new groups from Japan attend special programs on campus during 1989 as a result of Linda D. Chaffee’s visit to Japan in October and November.

Ms. Chaffee, director of the American Culture and Language Program, participated in seminars for Japanese educators and prospective students at the invitation of the International Student Advisors of Japan. She also spoke on “Studying in America” at the Trident School of Languages in Nagoya and at Yasuda Women’s University in Hiroshima. Both of these institutions had summer programs on campus in 1988.

Chamber Dinner

Reservations for the annual installation banquet of the San Bernardino Area Chamber of Commerce, to be Jan. 19, may be made with the Public Information Office, AD 104, Ext. 7558, until Jan. 13.

The cost is $28 per person. The banquet will be held at the Maruko Hotel. The 7:30 p.m. dinner follows the social hour.

Cynthia Pringle (Public Information) will be installed as a member of the Chamber board. Dr. Judith Rymer (University Relations), will complete several terms on the board.

Scholarships

The Academic Resources Office has information about scholarships available for Chinese language study in Taiwan and fellowships available for a summer institute on incorporating Japanese studies into the undergraduate curriculum to be held at San Diego State University this summer. Both programs are sponsored by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

Fifteen scholarships, with full tuition and miscellaneous fees, are available at the Mandarin Training Center in Taipei for the 1989-90 year. The fellowships for the four-week summer institute include free tuition and housing and a $1335 stipend.

Name Changes

In order to avoid confusion with other offices on campus, the name of the Office of Media Relations and Public Information has been streamlined to the Public Information Office, reports Cynthia Pringle, director.

Don McKenzie is now director of budget and telecommunications and the Budget Planning and Administration Office is now Budget and Telecommunications.

The name of William Shum’s office is now Physical Planning and Development, a change from Office of Facility Planning and Policy Coordination.

These changes reflect the growing responsibilities in new areas.

Contractor Banned

Because of unsatisfactory performance in installing the faculty office modular building here this fall and another project at Cal State, Fresno, an Oakland firm has been banned from bidding on state jobs for two years. The punitive action was taken by the Office of Real Estate and Design Services in Sacramento. Space Master Buildings, Inc., of Oakland, was to have the building ready for occupancy this fall. After many delays, it is now ready for full occupancy.

Teacher Institute

Area high school teachers participated in the Jan. 4-6 institute on “Congress and the Separation of Powers,” sponsored by the university and the Office of the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution.

Noted congressional scholars presented lectures on the separation of powers at the time of the founding of the nation, the evolvement of the country and the present day.

Coordinators for the event were Dr. Cynthia Hinckley and Dr. Dennis Mahoney (Political Science). Dr. Alvin Wolf (Education) participated in a workshop on teaching the Constitution.

Community Service

Dr. Russell Barber (Anthropology) spoke to the Redlands Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa Dec. 5. His topic was “Early Historic Education in the San Bernardino Area.”

Dr. Juan C. Gonzalez (President’s Office) presented a paper to the California Student Aid Commission’s Ad Hoc Committee on Outreach and Information Nov. 17 in Los Angeles. The purpose of the meeting was to explore the role of financial aid in a context of issues related to preparation for enrollment and success of students in California higher education. The particular focus was on students from backgrounds historically underrepresented in postsecondary institutions.

Dr. Karen Kolehmainen (Physics) spoke to the San Bernardino Valley Amateur Astronomers Nov. 19 on “Supernovae.”

Dr. Britt Leatham (Earth Science) spoke about mountain formations and earthquakes to fifth- and sixth-grade GATE students at Camp O-Ongo in Running Springs Dec. 13.

Dr. Jerrold Pritchard (Academic Programs, Music) and Elizabeth Kirkpatrick (Music) presented a noon recital of music for flute and piano Dec. 1 at Pasadena City College.
Dr. Jorge Sintes (Health Science and Human Ecology) presented a program on “Eating Disorders” to the Dental Directorate from Norton AFB and March AFB Dec. 1 at Norton. He also gave a program for the Hispanic Alumni Chapter Nov. 30 on “Sexually Transmitted Diseases.”

Dr. David Stine (Education) discussed recent recommendations from the statewide Commission on Public School Administration and Leadership on the “Take Your Stand” talk show on radio station KCIN in Victorville Dec. 14.

Taft T. Newman (Educational Support Services) was selected for the 18th edition of Who’s Who in California for having demonstrated “outstanding professional achievement, superior leadership and exceptional service.”
