Graduate Degree in Math Approved

The university's newest graduate degree program is a Master of Arts in Teaching with a major in mathematics, approved by Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds last week.

The new degree, on the academic master plan for two years, may be awarded beginning in 1989-90.

Surveys conducted earlier have indicated great interest among area teachers, explained Dr. Jerrold Pritchard (Academic Programs). Although no publicity has been given to the proposed program, other than the survey, the department continuously receives expressions of interest. The first graduate course was offered last fall and more than 20 teachers enrolled.

The department is planning to hire another faculty member, one with a Ph.D. in math education to support Dr. Robert Stein, who has expertise and training in this field. Other faculty members have taught math at the secondary school and at the university," explained the publications director.

The search for a new visual image for the university began nearly eight months ago with the hiring of design consultant, the Gardner Communications Group from Diamond Bar. Faculty members Dr. Dorothy Mettee (Communication) and Dr. Mary Smith (Marketing) served on the sub-committee to screen applicants.

A University Image Committee, representing major users of university printed materials, was appointed by Dr. Judith M. Rymer (University Relations) to work with the consultants. Faculty representation was designated by the Faculty Senate. Members of the Image Committee were: Carol Dunlap (Bookstore), Dr. Catherine Gannon (Coachella Valley Center), Dr. Beverly Hendricks (School of Humanities), Assistant Dean Jan Jackson (Extended Educa-community college levels. “As the first MAT in mathematics in the CSU, this degree is unique,” explained Dr. Stein, acting chair of math. “It is offered in conjunction with the School of Education but the focus is heavily in mathematics because we believe the teaching of this subject cannot be separated from the subject itself.”

Other Cal State campuses offer master’s degrees which are preparatory for doctoral programs. The M.A.T. is specifically designed to serve educators.

A CSU task force four years ago completed an in-depth survey of pre-college math and science education and found California was not producing enough well prepared teachers of math and science to meet its present needs. The shortage was expected to become more critical in the ensuing 10 years, with a high level of pending retirements in the public schools. Women, blacks and hispanics are seriously underrepresented both in the fields of math and science and in the teaching of these disciplines at all levels.

The number of mathematics majors in graduate schools, which can be easily tracked, is half of what it was some years ago and completely inadequate to meet the needs of the country, Dr. Stein explains.

“Since we (the discipline) can’t meet the need for Ph.D.s, we believe if we can produce top-notch leaders at local schools, they can help bring the other teachers up to snuff,” he said.

“Like the high schools, the two-year colleges are going to face an equal shortage of trained people and our degree will meet the needs of faculty teaching there as well,” he added.

“We firmly believe our new program can help area math teachers who are enthusiastic about their fields but seek additional academic preparation for leadership in the field,” said Dr. Stein.

Kansan to be Athletic Director

David Suenram, 54, former athletic director and coordinator of men’s athletics at Pittsburg State University in Kansas, will become Cal State’s first full-time athletic director April 1.

He was selected from a pool of six finalists based on his breadth of experience in coaching, athletics administration and fund-raising, announced Dr. Judith M. Rymer, vice president for university relations and chair of the AD search committee.

“During his years at Pittsburg State University, Suenram earned a solid reputation for being a strong leader, an excellent communicator and a man of vision,” she said. “He is strongly committed to the academic achievement of student athletes.”

Except for nine years as a high school coach, Suenram’s professional career has been at Pittsburg. He was head coach of track and field and cross country and taught in the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation for nine years before becoming coordinator of men’s athletics and head of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation in 1976. He served as athletic director from 1983 to 1987, resigning for personal reasons. During the past year he has been cross country coach in addition to his academic appointment as professor of physical education.

His fund-raising accomplishments at Pittsburg, a town of 18,000, included: increasing the athletic scholarship drive income from $15,000 to $90,000 in 10 years, raising nearly $1 million in the community for improvement of athletic facilities, organizing two jog-a-thons which raised $25,000 for department vehicles and increasing athletic revenue from increased student fees, gate receipts and concessions from $297,000 to $408,000 in four years.

He was involved in securing corporate support for the athletic program, establishing youth clinics, initiating regional city days for home football games and securing a radio station to broadcast basketball games after little interest had been shown.

Suenram formulated the plan to move Pittsburg State University from NAIA competition to NCAA II. During his tenure as athletic director, Pittsburg’s football team was in the NAIA national play-offs three times and won or shared six Central States Intercollegiate Conference championships. A total of 21 championships were won in all sports.

SAIL Receives Federal Funding

The Student Assistance in Learning (SAIL) program will receive a federal grant of $162,803 to continue its work in the 1989-90 academic year. The U.S. Department of Education has funded the program since it was established in 1981, said Dr. Tom Rivera (Educational Support Services).

SAIL provides counseling, academic and career workshops, follow-ups on faculty mid-term referrals and adjunct courses.

Diane Hansen is acting director of the program, housed in Trailer IB behind Student Services. The original grant was written by the director, Jean Peacock, who is on leave this year to pursue doctoral studies.

Ethel Encores Overlap Foreigner

The last two encore performances of the highly acclaimed original musical, "Ethel," will overlap the two concluding performances of "The Foreigner" tonight (Friday) and tomorrow, Saturday, Feb. 18.

"Ethel," the life of blues singer Ethel Waters, features Val Limar, a senior theatre arts major, in the title role. The one-woman show was written by Dr. William Slout (Theatre Arts) and Ms. Limar.

"The Foreigner," directed by Dr. Robert Yowell, is a contemporary comedy about a man who is thought to be non-English speaking and thus becomes privy to people's secrets.

Seen in the lead role is Ian Ocasio, a theatre arts major who draws on his experiences as a Spanish-speaking native of Puerto Rico.

"Ethel," directed by Dr. William Slout and "The Foreigner", in the Theatre. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. Admission for both is $6 general admission and $3 for senior citizens.

Nikki Giovanni Here Feb. 24

Nikki Giovanni, known as "the princess of black poetry," will recite from her works and talk about contemporary black issues on campus Feb. 24.

Her presentation, part of Black History Month, will begin at 7 p.m. in the Upper Commons. It is free and open to the public.

Giovanni developed prominence as an outspoken author in the 1960s. With 17 books and six record albums to her credit, she has developed the status of a folk hero in the black community.

She has taught creative writing at Ohio State University, The College of Mount St. Joseph, and Virginia Polytechnic and State University. She was designated as a woman of the year by Mademoiselle and Ladies Home Journal.

Also as part of the Black History Week celebration, a spoken and musical production of "The African-American Woman 1500 to the Present" will be presented at 3 p.m., Monday, Feb. 27 in the SUMP by four artists from Prada Productions.

Polish Film

A Polish film, grand prize winner at the 1981 Cannes Film Festival, will be shown Saturday evening, Feb. 25 in the foreign film series.

"Man of Iron" fuses fiction with documentary, depicting the turbulent coexistence of labor, the Catholic church and communism. The color film, rated PG, has English subtitles.

The showing, free and open to the public, begins at 8:15 p.m. in PS 10.

Parking Violations Bail Upped

The cost of parking illegally in a handicapped space will double—from $25 to $50—on March 1, warns Harry Larsen (Parking Services).

The fine for failure to display a parking decal or permit will go up from $10 to $15 at the same time.

The increases, approved by the Administrative Council and the San Bernardino Municipal Court, bring the university’s bail schedule more closely into line with other CSU campuses, Larsen explained. Bail for other parking violations remains unchanged.

BSU Conference Draws 150

More than 150 high school students, advisors and parents attended the Southern Regional United Black Students Union (UBSU) conference on campus Jan. 14.

Workshops on student life, male-female relationships, black history and caucusing were followed by a keynote address by Frank Stallworth, from State Sen. Ruben Ayala’s staff.

High schools represented were San Gorgonio, Eisenhower, Riverside Poly, North, Rubidoux, Moreno Valley, Canyon Springs, Victor Valley, Elsinore and Garey.

The conference was coordinated by Billy Johnson, Cal State’s BSU president, and Anita E. Rivers (Relations with High Schools).

Escape to Santa Anita

Horse-racing fans, this is an opportunity for you, reports Joe Long (Recreational Sports).

Seats are still available on the bus headed for the Santa Anita race track tomorrow (Saturday, Feb. 18). The cost is $6, for admission and the bus trip. The bus will leave at 10:15 a.m. from the book drop at the front of the campus.

The Escape program is sponsored by the Associated Students. Reservations should be made with the ASI box office in the Student Union.

Students Provide Tax Assistance

Cal State accounting students will help low-income taxpayers prepare their federal and state tax returns free again this year, said Joan Kritzberg (Accounting and Finance), faculty advisor.

The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program is sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service and the Accounting Association.

The students will be available in the Eucalyptus Room of the Commons from 4 to 6 p.m., Wednesdays and Thursdays through March 9. They will be in Central City Mall, the upper Penney’s court, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturdays through March 4.

Senior Show March 2

A variety of work will be shown in the Senior Thesis Exhibition opening in the Art Gallery Thursday, March 2.

A free, public reception from 7 to 9 p.m. that day will honor the student artists.

The areas of concentration and the exhibitors in the show are:

- Painting: Anne Alfred, Maria Littlefield and Diane Raley; sculpture: Darryl Elliott and Wendell Thomas; ceramics/glass: Roger Dale, Terry German and Judy Hernandez; and graphic art: John Hyde and Sylvia Gutierrez.

Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Community Service

Dr. Russell Barber (Anthropology) was the guest on the Viewpoint program on Radio KQLH, San Bernardino, Feb. 12, discussing evolution and creationism.

Dr. Edward J. Bostley (Music) presented an in-service workshop on “Aesthetic Development in the Public School Instrumental Music Program” for the Yucaipa School District Jan. 27.
