Anniversary Celebration Planners Sought

The university will celebrate its 25th anniversary in 1990-91, with events and activities involving the campus, the alumni and the community.

A 25th Anniversary Steering Committee, appointed by Vice President Judith M. Rymer, has commenced planning for the year-long observance. “The celebration should provide an opportunity to showcase the activities and programs already existing at the university as well as develop special events,” explained Edna Steinman (Publications), committee chair.

“We will look back at our heritage and share our visions for the future.”

Dr. Ward McAfee (History), a member of the original faculty, is preparing a 25-year history of the institution, to be issued during the anniversary year.

The work of planning the anniversary activities will be carried out primarily through subcommittees, which will meet this spring and during the coming year, explained Ms. Steinman. The subcommittees will include: major events, commemorative merchandise, recognitions, exhibits, performances, publicity and other.

The responsibilities of the subgroups will be to identify potential events or activities, identify audiences for the events, prepare budgets, establish time schedules and assist with the implementation of the activity.

The anniversary committee, working with the university administration and the overall budget, will have the responsibility for selection of the activities to be scheduled. The subcommittees will have the major responsibility for implementation of the event.

The 25th Anniversary Committee is soliciting nominations of individuals interested in serving on these subcommittees. “We seek to involve the entire campus community in the anniversary celebration, beginning with the planning,” said Ms. Steinman.

Faculty, staff or students interested in participating in subcommittees are asked to send their names and areas of interest to Ms. Steinman at the Publications Office, AD 117.

Additional information on the 25th anniversary celebration is available from members of the committee, who are: Linda Bennecke (Alumni), Tyrone Bookman (Physical Plant), Dr. Juan Gonzalez (President’s Office), Dr. Beverly Hendricks (School of Humanities), Ted Krug (Financial Aid), Dr. Janice Lotzenhiser (Department of Management), Dr. Ward McAfee (History), Marta McQueen (Alumni), Dr. Junryo Miyashita (Computer Science), Lynn Moss (Career Development Center), Dr. David Porter (School of Business and Public Administration), Cynthia Pringle (Public Information), Johnnie Ann Ralph (Library) and Larry Hetter (Associated Students).

Mini-grant, Leave Proposals Due April 1

Approximately $70,000 in university funds is available for mini-grants and one-quarter leaves for instructional faculty and librarians in 1989-90. Announced Dr. J. C. Robinson (Academic Personnel).

Applications must be submitted by April 1. The awards will be announced about May 1.

The funds are available in two areas—research, scholarship and creative activities and paid leaves for one quarter.

Awards may range from $100 to $5000. Funds may be used for student assistance, duplicating, supplies and services and travel for research, for example.

The projects proposed must contribute to the professional development of the faculty member, must show relevance to the mission and programmatic needs of the university and must enhance the academic experience of students, he said.

The application forms, available at school offices, are first reviewed by a school committee and then by the Faculty Affairs Committee, which makes recommendations to the vice president for academic affairs.

Administrative Fellows Applications Now Open

Applications for the 1989-90 Administrative Fellows Program are now being accepted by the Academic Personnel Office, AD 109, announced Dr. J. C. Robinson (Academic Personnel).

The CSU program was developed to provide opportunities for upward mobility, especially for women, persons from ethnic minority backgrounds and individuals with disabilities. Individuals selected for a fellowship will spend the academic year, normally on another campus, working under the guidance of a senior administrator.

Fellows receive their normal salary, vacation and retirement benefits as if they were in their regular positions on their home campuses.

The program is open to academic and administrative personnel who have a tenured/permanent or probationary position and who desire to prepare for a career option in administration or management, Dr. Robinson said.

Applications, due in his office by April 7, will be reviewed by a campus selection committee. The university president forwards his recommendation to Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds. The CSU selection committee makes the final recommendations to the chancellor who consults with campus presidents before making offers of appointment.

Laraine Turk from Cal Poly, Pomona is working under Vice President Robert Detweiler this year through the Fellows Program.

Drivers Urged to Use
Caution on Campus

Faculty and staff must use caution when driving on the inner campus roads and walkways, E. W. Harrison, chief of police operations, stressed.

"Our department has received several complaints about fellow employees who drive too fast on the inner walkways and fail to yield for pedestrian traffic," he said.

Chief Harrison recommends the following measures to reduce traffic flow and ensure safety to all pedestrians who walk on the campus:

* Drivers should make a conscientious effort to yield to pedestrian traffic.
* Inner campus speeds by all vehicles should be no more than 5 mph.

* Private vehicles are required to park in designated parking lots only.
* Staff and faculty who must park and unload personal items near buildings should notify public safety prior to unloading articles.
* Staff and faculty are requested not to drive their personal vehicles through the inner campus walkways simply to drop off someone at a particular building.

"Your safe driving practices on campus ensure safety for all who walk along our inner campus walkways," Harrison said.
