DR. ERNEST GARCIA ANNOUNCES RETIREMENT

School of Education Dean Ernest Garcia recently announced his retirement effective Aug. 1, 1990. A nationwide search for his successor will begin soon.

Garcia has been with the university for 21 years. When asked about his retirement plans, Garcia quipped, "My first-year goal is to practice my golf swing so I can be at least as good (at golf) as Tony Evans!"

Joking aside, Garcia shared that retirement plans include the possibility of school board consulting and participation in the Faculty Early Retirement Program, which would allow him to teach courses here on campus. Garcia also plans to continue his involvement with community groups such as Arrowhead United Way, the YWCA and the Inland Empire Symphony.

Describing himself as "strictly an armchair archaeologist," Garcia said someday he would like to go on an archaeological dig. Traveling abroad, perhaps to attend the 1992 Olympic Games and World Expo in Spain, are among future possibilities.

Upon reflecting on his years at Cal State, Dr. Garcia said that his fondest memories include, "seeing the campus develop so much. We have been able to recruit and attract so many outstanding faculty members over the years who all bring such an enthusiasm to our university."

When Garcia arrived on campus in 1968 the Department of Education consisted of five faculty members. Today, the School of Education has grown to 63 members.

"Looking ahead," continues Garcia, "I will miss all the administrators and faculty members I’ve worked with and our pleasant surroundings... you feel so good when you arrive here on campus."

Garcia’s colleagues and friends still have several months to enjoy his warm personality and never-ceasing sense of humor. And, his significant contributions to Cal State will forever remain.

UNITED WAY CAMPAIGN UNDERWAY

The 1989 Arrowhead United Way (AUW) campaign kicked-off here on campus with an organizational meeting held Oct. 23. You soon will be contacted by your campus United Way volunteer who will offer you the opportunity to pledge your support or continue your past commitment to AUW or any of its 57 member health and human care agencies.

Dr. James Crum, Natural Sciences dean, is serving as this year’s United Way chairman here on campus. He is being assisted by co-chair Mary Colacurcio, director of alumni affairs.

As noted in a recent letter from President Anthony Evans, "a wide array of health, welfare and rehabilitative services for the young, the disabled, elderly and homeless will benefit from your generosity."

Evans continued, "please do join other members of our university community in reaching our goal. The need has rarely been greater." According to Crum, this year’s goal is not a single monetary amount, but rather, "a desire to reach 100 percent participation."

Columnist Jack Smith to Speak on Campus

Mark your calendar for 2 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 19, as Los Angeles Times Columnist Jack Smith shares "My Times at the Times" presented by the university’s Library Associates support group. Smith’s speech will be given in the Recital Hall followed by a reception on the first floor of the Pfau Library. Admission is free and the program is open to the public.

Smith’s columns have informed and entertained readers since 1958. His books include “Alive in La La Land,” “Jack Smith’s L.A.,” and “How To Win A Pullet Prize.”

The popular journalist began his newspaper career in the late 1930s as a sports reporter for The Bakersfield Californian. In subsequent years, he worked for the Honolulu Advertiser, the United Press in Sacramento, the Sacramento Union, the San Diego Journal, the Los Angeles Daily News and the Los Angeles Herald Express. During World War II, he served with the U.S. Marine Corps as a combat correspondent. He joined the Los Angeles Times in 1953 as a reporter and writer.
YOUTH SOCCER CLINIC DRAWS 400

Nearly 400 persons braved some early rain to attend the Youth Soccer Clinic held Sunday, Oct. 22 on campus. In addition to the 252 elementary and junior high school students who registered for the clinic, 41 youth and high school coaches participated in a separate coaches' clinic.

Cal State Athletic Director David Suenram called the clinic "an outstanding success" and left little doubt that it will become an annual event. "We want to have Cal State involved with the community," said Suenram. "The overwhelming attendance figures tell us that there is a desire for this sort of interaction between the community and our school." Special thanks to soccer coaches Ralph Perez and Carlos Juarez, who co-directed the event.

CONCERT CELEBRATES AMERICAN MUSIC WEEK

American Music Week will be celebrated on campus with a concert featuring the works of American composers at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 8 in the Recital Hall. Featuring various musical presentations such as solo voice, piano and instrumental, the program also will include a selection, entitled "Five Pieces," composed by Dr. Richard Saylor of the Music Department.

According to Dr. Edward Bostley, Music Department chair, "benefits from the concert will go towards the music scholarship fund." General admission is $5 for adults, $3 for students and senior citizens. Students and employees will be admitted free with proper identification. Information is available from the Music Department at Ext. 5859.

PUBLICATIONS DIRECTOR RETIRES

Edna Steinman, former Bulletin editor and director of publications at Cal State, retired from the university effective Sept. 1 after 21 years of service.

"I'm really enjoying this phase of my life," said Steinman in a recent telephone interview. "I'm busy with community activities."

Currently, Steinman serves as president of the Alpha Pi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma and is on the state board for the American Association of University Women. She continues to be active in the Zonta Club of Redlands and she also is involved with public relations freelancing and consulting.

Looking back, Steinman recalls, "the excitement of seeing a college grow from infancy to a full-fledged university. Each year brought a new challenge ... there was always growth and change and being a part of the glory and sometimes the agony of that process was exciting."

BASKETBALL MEDIA EVENT OFFERS SNEAK PEEK OF COYOTES

Be among the first to check out Cal State's basketball teams for the upcoming '89/90 season at a basketball media event slated for Thursday, Nov. 9, from 5-6:30 p.m. in the gym. At 5 p.m., the women's team will play an intrasquad game followed by a men's intrasquad competition at 5:30 p.m. At 6 p.m., Cal State's athletic staff will take on local sports writers including The Sun's Greg Patton and Mitch Polin from the Los Angeles Times. Students and employees are invited to attend the event. Admission is free. More details are available from David Beyer, Ext. 5012.

WOMEN'S STUDIES LUNCHEON SPEAKERS SERIES BEGINS THIRD SEASON

Informal sessions presented by Cal State faculty members designed to help stimulate feminist scholarship and provide a congenial atmosphere to discuss various works is now in progress. Faculty, staff, students and community supporters are welcome. All presentations will be held from 12 noon to 1 p.m. in the Sycamore Room, Lower Commons. Participants are welcome to bring a "brown bag" lunch. Coffee and tea will be served. The next presentation is slated for Tuesday, Nov. 7. Dr. Lynda Warren (Psychology) will present "Pack Rats." More information is available from Dr. Ellen Gruenbaum at Ext. 5503 or from Dr. Nancy Rose at Ext. 5516.
Cal State employee, Pat Diaz, recently announced her candidacy for one of 12 positions on the Public Employees Retirement System (PERS) board of directors. Diaz, a secretary in Counseling & Testing, states, “I feel it is my duty to be a part of the system. It’s not enough to stand by and complain, we should become actively involved. I’d like the opportunity to do just that.”

All employees recently received official voting ballots which must be postmarked by Thursday, Nov. 30. If you did not receive a ballot, contact the Personnel Office at Ext. 5138.

A select group of Newsweek magazine’s key editors and correspondents will provide insights into today’s top news stories in an 8 p.m. panel presentation on Tuesday, Nov. 14 in the university’s Upper Commons.

Newsweek Editor Maynard Parker has directed coverage of the magazine’s major stories over the past two decades, including on-scene coverage of the Vietnam War. Since joining Newsweek in 1967, he has served as national affairs editor, assistant managing editor and executive editor. Joining Parker will be: John Barry, national security correspondent; Richard K. Thomas, chief economic correspondent; and Margaret G. Warner, diplomatic correspondent.

Attendees will have the opportunity to submit written questions to the panel moderator. General admission is $5 and tickets are available from the ASI Box Office, Ext. 5933. Cal State employees and students will be admitted free with a complimentary pass obtained in advance. The program is being sponsored by the World Affairs Council of Inland Southern California and the Intellectual Life & Visiting Scholar’s Committee.
