CSU Chancellor Responds to Governor's 1990-91 Budget

California State University Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds expressed her disappointment regarding Governor Deukmejian's proposed 1990-91 budget at a Jan. 10 meeting of the CSU Board of Trustees.

"The news we received this morning from Governor Deukmejian indicates it is going to be a very lean budget year for the CSU," said Reynolds. "This morning the Governor released his 1990-91 proposed budget to the legislature in Sacramento. From the CSU standpoint, it is a proposal with, at best, mixed blessings. The Capital Outlay portion of the Governor's budget provides $212,626,000, which represents 95 percent of our request. It is one of the highest levels of construction funding the CSU has ever received. While the program still has to be reviewed by the legislature, and ultimate funding is dependent on voter approval of a bond measure, I am gratified by the administration's support for the facilities the CSU so desperately needs to meet the enrollment challenges.

Personal Safety Measures Stressed by Campus Police

The recently reported sexual assault attempt on campus prompts Police Chief Ed Harrison to again urge all university employees and students to observe safety practices while on campus.

Individuals who are on campus during the evening are encouraged to use the campus escort service which is available by calling Ext. 5165. A campus patrol aid will walk or drive individuals to their car or dorm room.

"The university has added many new emergency phones since last spring for your convenience," said Harrison. Distinguished by their red cover, 13 emergency phones are located on the grounds and inside campus buildings. To make the exterior phones more visible, blue shades have been placed on the lights above six phones in heavily trafficked areas: two are between the main parking lot and the perimeter road, one between the Faculty Office Building and the Pfau Library, another at the southwest corner of the Physical Sciences Building, one behind the Biology Building and another which the university is facing.

"In the area of compensation, the Governor's budget provides, effective January 1, 1991, an average increase of 3.9 percent for non-faculty employees and a 4.9 percent increase for faculty subject to collective bargaining. While the percentage amounts will help us to be competitive, I am concerned over the six-month delay in providing the compensation for faculty from our traditional salary increase date of July, and hope that the Governor and legislature will return salary increases from the anticipated January, 1991 effective date to July, 1990.

"The 1990-91 Governor's budget submitted for operating support of the CSU is disappointing. It totals a net of $1,682,722,000, which is $224 million less than the Board of Trustees' Amended Request. Exclusive of the compensation provision previously noted, it represents a 2.1 percent increase over the current year. However, the cost to merely maintain existing service levels for projected 1990-91 enrollment requires an increase of 10.8 percent.

"While we anticipated a very sparse budget, (given reduced State revenues, the State Appropriations Limit and the uncertainty surrounding the pending SCA 1 resolution) the support level proposed in the Governor's budget is wholly inadequate to accommodate the number of students who are projected to enroll. Although the items funded include the CSU request for enrollment costs associated with a 2.7 percent growth in FTE students, this increase is more than offset by budget reductions to our normal funding base and lack of funding for costs related to non-discretionary expenditures and increased workloads.

"In addition, the Governor's budget contains significant anomalies that have to be rectified. Funding has been provided to staff adequately in the instruction program, yet virtually no funds have been budgeted to satisfy academic support enrollment-related costs. The budget has been increased to provide the student services support required for enrollment growth, yet no funds have been budgeted to ensure the provision of adequate space, nor for the maintenance of existing facilities and services that provide institutional support to the total student population.

"Should the Governor's budget be enacted in July as presently submitted, the CSU support budget will require major cutbacks which will prevent delivery of the traditional, quality education CSU students deserve. While I am greatly distressed over the magnitude of the reductions reflected in the Governor's budget, my staff, I, and my colleagues, the presidents, will be working for passage of the Traffic Relief and Spending Limitation Act (SCA 1). I am confident that should revenue estimates improve, the Governor will provide for restoration of some of these reductions. We must be optimistic that significant amelioration of this debilitating budget will be provided by working with the executive and legislative branches."

between the Commons and Health Center. The other outside emergency phones are located on the first and second floors of the Faculty Office Building, the Physical Education pool, the P.E. field, the Physical Plant, outside the Housing Office, the bus stop shelter and the information kiosk.

"Campus patrons also are encouraged to use the buddy system when walking to and from classes and offices," Harrison continued. Any suspicious behavior or circumstances should be reported to Campus Police immediately, he stressed. The campus emergency phone number is Ext. 5911.

Improvements to Begin Soon on Temporary Parking Lot

The existing dirt parking lot located between the dorm parking lot and the physical education parking lot is scheduled to be improved with asphalt paving, drainage, concrete curbs and lighting. The project will begin by the first week of February and will be completed in approximately six weeks. Some traffic congestion may occur during the construction.

The dirt parking lot located south of the temporary lot will remain open during construction. Traffic barriers will be in place to define the project boundaries. Your patience and cooperation during this project will be greatly appreciated. Any questions regarding this construction project may be directed to David DeMauro (Physical Plant) at Ext. 5166.
Cal State’s Environmental Education Resource Center held an open house on Jan. 11 in celebration of being recognized as one of four founding centers in the National Network for Environmental Education. Under the direction of Dr. Darleen Stoner (Education), the center has a collection of environmental education curriculum guides and references. The center offers teacher conferences, is involved in curriculum development and research and community outreach. Its excellence in accomplishments attracted recognition as a national model.

The National Network is the project of the Alliance for Environmental Education, an affiliation of professional, business, health, labor, education and environmental education representing more than 20 million members. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is in partnership with the alliance in establishing the national network. The goal of the network is to transform the way people think about the environment and to dramatically increase the number of citizens who can make informed judgments about environmental issues.

Honored guests at the well-attended open house included Steven Kusman, who serves as president of the alliance, and Thomas Benjamin, a representative of the National Network. According to Stoner, “There was a good showing of organizations who are joining with the university to promote environmental education in schools and the community.”

One project highlighted at the open house was the filming of Kimbark Elementary School’s nationally recognized environmental education program in Devore, CA. The film recently received the Diamond Award as the best educational film in Southern California on cable television.

The university’s Environmental Education Resource Center will host the annual Inland Empire Environmental EXPO slated for Saturday, April 21. For more information, call Ext. 5640.

Free Family Reading Rally Features Children’s Storytellers

One of the most popular events of the year at Cal State, the annual Family Reading Rally, will be held from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 3 outside the Student Union Building. Aimed at helping children ages 4-12 discover the joys of reading, the free rally will feature children’s storytellers Evelyn Forrester and Olga Loya. Children will see some of their favorite stories illustrated through marionettes, hand puppets and magic. Parents will be offered creative ways to encourage their youngsters to read.

“It’s a chance for parents and children to work at reading activities together and gives them exposure to good children’s authors and good children’s books,” says Dr. Peggy Atwell (Education). Bilingual interpreters will assist during many of the rally activities.

Representatives from the San Bernardino county and city libraries will issue library cards to interested parents and children. The rally also will feature a book sale held by Imagine That, a Riverside bookseller.

Registration will be held from 9-9:30 a.m. Free refreshments will be served during a late-morning break. Organizers anticipate more than 1,000 participants. Last year’s rally drew a crowd of over 800 despite rainy weather.

Wedding Bells

The campus community extends congratulations to Dr. Steve Levy (Management) and Janet Courts (Accounting and Finance) who were married Wednesday, Dec. 27, in Las Vegas, NE. The couple reside in San Bernardino. Best wishes!
Quality Counseling Available

If you’re feeling overwhelmed, help is just a phone call away. Private psychological counseling is available through June 15 at the university’s Community Counseling Center. Open to all area residents, the center offers help to people experiencing anxiety, depression or personal relationship difficulties. All counseling is conducted by Cal State graduate students under the supervision of Psychology Department faculty.

The center’s director, Dr. Edward Teyber (Psychology), describes it as “a win/win situation.” Teyber says that in recent years, funds for similar government-financed programs have “dried up.” The Community Counseling Center provides quality counseling at an affordable price, while at the same time offering invaluable counseling experience to university graduate students.

Treatment for drug and/or alcohol addiction or help for individuals who may be suicidal is not available, however, referrals will be made in such cases. The fee for each 50-minute counseling session is only $10. All counseling is strictly confidential. For information, call the Community Counseling Center at Ext. 5569. It might just be the best call you ever make.

Phi Kappa Phi Offers Graduate Scholarships

Each year, the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi provides a national competition to award $6,000 scholarships for students entering their first year of graduate work. Only one student per campus can be nominated to compete.

In order to be considered, students must be a member of Phi Kappa Phi or must be eligible for membership. Last year, a minimum grade point average of 3.48 was required. This requirement varies slightly from year to year. Applicants also must have applied to a program of graduate studies.

Application forms and additional information are available from Dr. Frances Berdan (Anthropology), who serves as secretary of our campus chapter. She may be reached at Ext. 5502. Three letters of reference and an official transcript must accompany the completed application. The deadline for submission is Wednesday, Feb. 14.

1990 Winter Mixer Hosted By School of Business and Public Administration

Faculty, student leaders and alumni of the School of Business and Public Administration are invited to attend the 1990 Winter Mixer and Briefing on Friday, Feb. 2, from 4:30-6:30 p.m. in the Panorama Room, Lower Commons.

A “State of the School” report will be presented at 5:30 p.m. by Dr. David Porter (Business and Public Administration). At 5:45 p.m., a report on the future building complex will be provided by the project’s architect. A model of the new Business Administration and Information Sciences Building will be on display.

The mixer is a good opportunity for administration alumni to stay in touch with Cal State and their former classmates and to interact with faculty and key student leaders. A $3 minimum donation towards the Business and Public Administration Alumni Chapter’s 1990-91 student scholarship fund is requested as admission. More information is available from Mary Colacurcio (Alumni Affairs) at Ext. 5008.

Audio-Visual Department Hosts Open House

Check out what’s new in Cal State’s Audio-Visual Department on Friday, Feb. 9, at their Open House slated for 1-2:30 p.m. in Pfau Library, Room 87. The event will feature new graphics, ITFS, new equipment and a distribution system. Everyone is invited to attend. For more details, contact Dr. Robert Senour (Audio-Visual) at Ext. 5060.

Bookstore Wins Second Place in Magazine Subscriptions Contest

American Collegiate Marketing, the company responsible for providing students with discount magazine subscriptions, will issue the campus bookstore a $500 check for placing second in the Medium Size Store Conference contest for magazine subscriptions. The Coyote Bookstore followed the University of Cincinnati in this national competition.

The bookstore also was the winner of the Most Improved Sales in its conference. For this honor, American Collegiate Marketing will award an additional $250 prize. Congratulations to Arleen Newton (Bookstore), who heads up this promotion, and to all the students who purchased magazine subscriptions.
Thanks To You

Thanks to everyone who contributed to this year’s campus-wide United Way campaign. The campus community generously raised a total of $19,806.04 representing a 2.3 percent increase over last year’s amount.

The money was raised on behalf of Arrowhead United Way (AUW), a local non-profit fund-raising organization which assists over 50 local health and human care service agencies in the greater San Bernardino and mountain communities.

Dr. James Crum (Natural Sciences) and Mary Colacurcio (Alumni Affairs) served as this year’s campus co-chairs. Appreciation is extended to everyone who helped make the campaign a success at Cal State.

According to a recent AUW newsletter, Campaign Chairperson Patricia Leathers of GTE California, announced that “the organization’s goal will be exceeded for the first time in six years.” Leathers expects the final community campaign figure to exceed $2.6 million!

The organization will hold its Annual Dinner Meeting on Thursday, Feb. 15. This event will honor key community volunteers for their support during the past campaign. For information on the annual dinner, contact Arrowhead United Way at (714) 884-9441.

Several Cal State staff members participated in a day-long CPR class on Thursday, Jan. 18, sponsored by the Office of Insurance & Risk Management, Sacramento, CA. Public Affairs employees Jonova Knickerbocker (left) and Sam Romero concentrate on practicing life-saving CPR techniques. The class was coordinated by the Personnel Office.

Recent Volleyball Tournament Shows Fun of Campus Life

The first annual Martin Luther King Volleyball Tournament held Monday, Jan. 15 on campus attracted 83 participants representing seven area high schools, Cal State Upward Bound students and members of the local Boys and Girls Clubs. Co-sponsored by the Alumni Association and the local chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, Inc., the event was designed to show high school students the fun of campus life and to spark their interest in Cal State.

“The event was highly successful and support from local service clubs and Cal State groups was fantastic,” said alumna Margaret Hill, one of the event’s key organizers and president of Phi Delta Kappa, Inc.

A team representing the Sherman Indian Institute of Riverside won the perpetual trophy for the event.

“Seeing so many bright and enthusiastic volleyball players enjoying themselves in Cal State’s gymnasium on the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday made the months of preparation seem like time well spent,” said Mary Colacurcio (Alumni Affairs). “I look forward to being involved again next year,” she added.

In addition to some exciting volleyball competition, participants had the opportunity to tour the campus and enjoy a hot dog lunch. Special thanks are extended to Hill, alumna Joyce Payne and Athletic Department representatives David Suenram, Naomi Ruderman and Sue Strain who helped with the event. Appreciation also is extended to Raymond Navarro (Advising Center) who videotaped the competition.
