Interim Dean Named for School of Education

Dr. John Dunworth of Pensacola, FL, has been appointed the new interim dean of the School of Education effective Aug. 15. He replaces Dean Ernest Garcia who is retiring from the university this summer. Dunworth will serve in the position for approximately one year while a national search for a permanent replacement is conducted.

Dunworth has extensive experience in the field of education having served in several academic and administrative positions. He is a former classroom teacher, principal, district superintendent of schools, dean and college president.

His most recent appointment was as a Jones Distinguished University Professor at Emporia State University in Kansas. Prior to that, Dunworth served as president of George Peabody College for Teachers for five years and was dean of the Teachers College at Ball State University where he served for over seven years. Additionally, Dunworth was the first dean of the College of Education at the University of West Florida and served as superintendent of the Santa Ana Unified School District, one of the ten largest educational systems in California.

"It's a real honor to be asked to serve at such an outstanding institution," says Dunworth. "The CSU is known throughout the world for its quality and accessibility to students. It's well known as a model for delivering higher education. I'm looking forward to the position very much."

He notes that his initial goals and priorities will be to build upon the present strengths of the School of Education. "The school has a fine reputation, and my role as interim dean will be to continue this reputation and to address the challenge of"

Summer Safety Tips for Campus Crime Prevention

Now that the summer session is under way and the campus is less populated, the Department of Public Safety encourages members of the university community to practice good crime prevention techniques, reports Edward Harrison, director of public safety.

"It's not the time to let our guard down on personal and property safety. Offices that are often left unoccupied, even for short periods of time, are prime targets for thefts. And because fewer people are around, crimes of opportunities are prevalent," states Harrison.

Plan to have a safe summer on campus by practicing the following crime prevention techniques:

PROTECT PERSONAL PROPERTY

1. Watch your personal property and be observant of those around you, especially when making short trips to the copy or soft-drink machines.

2. Don't leave valuables in plain sight. Lock purses in a desk drawer or file cabinet.

3. Always lock your vehicle and park in a well-lit area. Don't leave valuables inside your vehicle. If you must, do not leave them in a visible place.

4. Please note that the university assumes no responsibility for loss of or damage to personal property.

AVOID WALKING ALONE AT NIGHT

1. If you have a night class, make arrangements to walk back and forth with several other classmates or fellow residents who may have classes in nearby buildings.

2. If it is absolutely necessary that you travel alone at night, stay on well-lit and well-traveled pathways.

Irish and Caribbean Music Featured as Summer Entertainment Series Continues

Stories and folk music of Ireland will fill the air when noted Irish harpist Dennis Doyle and the group Aisling perform on campus on Wednesday, July 18, as this year’s summer entertainment series continues. The free, outdoor concert begins at 7 p.m. on the Lower Commons Plaza.

A performer at Scottish and Irish folk festivals from coast to coast, Doyle has appeared in New York and Chicago, and will perform this August at the Milwaukee Irish Festival, the world’s largest festival of its kind. He has recorded three albums—“In the Mother Tongue,” “The Harper’s Return” and “Hibernia.”

Doyle, who as a boy, played the organ in the window of a Glendale store to attract Christmas shoppers, has specialized in the Celtic harp for the last 10 years.

“A lot of the music I play comes from a time of Irish history that most Americans don’t know about,” says Doyle, who is a professor of English at Glendale Community College. To enrich his audience’s understanding of the music, Doyle weaves stories about the songs throughout his performances. “Mostly what I like to do is uncover old material and bring it to modern audiences. There’s another thousand years of Irish music that’s embedded in the culture,” he notes.

Appearing with Doyle will be the group Aisling. The name means “dream” and refers to a kind of Irish poetry that creates visual images of mist moving over mountains and lakes, and green fields stretching for miles. Because many of these poems spoke of returning to such a homeland, some were considered subversive in the 17th century after the British subjugation of the Gaelic people.

The series continues on Wednesday, July 25, with island music performed on authentic Caribbean instruments by Pandemonium, a group billed as the best in steeldrum bands. Under the leadership of Dr. Michael Carney, director of percussion studies at CSU, Long Beach, this six-member group will blend the traditional music of the Caribbean with contemporary sounds of the United States.

A unique feature of Pandemonium is the instrumentation which consists of four steeldrum players, bass and a drum set. The steeldrums, or pans, possess a beautiful sound, rich in tone quality. This enchanting music is further enhanced by Pandemonium’s state-of-the-art sound system.

The steeldrum is considered in musical circles as one of the most distinctive instruments heard in today’s contemporary music. The instrument originated in Trinidad, the southernmost island of the Caribbean. During World War II, the U.S. Navy left thousands of 55-gallon oil barrels on docks and military bases. A young man, Ellie Mamette, developed the art of tuning the oil drums to make the enchanting sounds associated with the steeldrum. The family of steeldrums contains nine members, and the range of notes is comparable to the string family.

Carney, a virtuoso steeldrum performer from Rochester, NY, has performed with many notable musicians, such as Al Vizzutti, Pepper Adams, Bill Watrous, Eddie Daniels, John Patitucci, Ernie Andrews and Grammy Award Winner Bobby McFerrin. He currently directs the Percussion Ensemble and Steeldrum Orchestra at the Long Beach campus where he teaches courses in jazz history and jazz improvisation.

Everyone is invited to bring picnic baskets, blankets and lounge chairs while enjoying an outdoor evening of musical entertainment. Hot dogs, soft drinks and candy will be sold at the concerts.

This year’s summer entertainment series is being sponsored by the Associated Students, Inc., the Student Union, the Webb Corporation, the California Arts Council and N.E.C. Business Communications Systems.

Summer Softball League Forming

Employees and family members are invited to join the summer slow-pitch softball league. Due to the overwhelming success of the spring season league which attracted over 70 participants, a second season is being planned. The league is particularly interested in recruiting more female players.

You need not be a high caliber athlete to participate. In fact, talent ranges from quite modest to average skill levels. So, all of you softball "has-beens," "never-weres" and "wannabes" are invited to join this family league. It’s a great way to get some exercise and meet others from the campus community.

Games are tentatively scheduled for 5:30 p.m. on Thursdays. The season begins in mid-July and runs through September. For more details, contact Ted Krug (Financial Aid) at Ext. 5221 or Pamela Langford (University Relations) at Ext. 5006.
English Professor Retires

Twenty-year faculty member Dr. Helene Koon, professor of English, announces her retirement effective this August. With degrees in drama and English, she brought a wealth of academic training and professional experience to the university when she joined the faculty in 1970 as an assistant professor of English.

Koon served as chair of the English Department from 1975-1981, was recognized in 1987 by the San Bernardino Area Chamber of Commerce as one of the area's top educators and was named as Cal State's outstanding professor for the 1988-89 academic year. In 1987 Koon collaborated with two colleagues in securing a $235,000 grant awarded by the National Endowment for the Humanities to implement a four-year university-wide writing skills program.

A former actress and director, Koon performed in numerous summer stock theatre productions in New Mexico and directed a children's theatre in Hollywood before joining the university. Remarking on her fondest memories of Cal State, Koon recalls her early years on campus when she and several Hollywood friends formed the "Travelers Theatre Group" and brought several theatrical productions to campus over a three-year period. "We called it the Travelers Theatre because we had to drive all the way from Hollywood," she mused.

When questioned why she abandoned the theatre for a career as an educator, Koon says, "I was never famous and I got tired of all the rehearsals. I was in theatre a number of years and always enjoyed writing. I enjoyed teaching because it allowed me to write."

As an educator, Koon taught in the foreign languages, theatre arts and humanities departments. "I was able to link up with many interesting people as part of my teaching in the various disciplines," she notes. Recalling her years at the university, Koon comments, "Each year is a book in itself. Some years have better plots than others. I didn't do anything that I didn't enjoy. It was a fun experience. I love the faculty and the students, and I will miss them all very much."

Looking toward the future, Koon plans to complete a novel about a female musician and will travel to Europe this fall with her husband. Other travel plans include a trip to the South Seas within the next few years. Koon, who holds a Ph.D. in English from UCLA, will maintain a professional affiliation with the Society for Theatre Research.

3. Use the campus escort service to assist you during the evening hours. Escorts are available by dialing Ext. 5165 from any campus phone.

4. Be aware of campus emergency telephones which are located at over 30 sites. These are housed in red or gray boxes and have a blue light above them. They provide a direct link to the campus police should you need assistance or wish to report a crime. Simply open the phone box and lift the receiver.

REPORT CRIME IMMEDIATELY

1. Should you become a victim, report the incident as soon as possible by calling the campus police at Ext. 5911 or by using one of the emergency telephones. If you observed the perpetrator, note the description of the person, the suspect's vehicle, the direction the individual headed and other details.

2. When reporting the incident, tell the police where you are and wait at that location until the officer arrives.

3. If you are a victim of a sexual assault or any offensive act and wish to speak with a female officer, don't hesitate to voice your request. Arrangements will be made for you to discuss the incident with a female officer. Incidents of this nature should be reported to protect you and other members of the campus community.

Know that campus safety is a university-wide responsibility. Plan for a safe summer by remaining alert and practicing crime prevention tips.

One of Cal State's original faculty members, Dr. Ralph Petrucci, professor of chemistry, announces his retirement effective this August. He joined the university in 1964 as a member of Cal State's planning committee and served as chair of the Division of Natural Sciences from 1966-1972. In September of 1972, Petrucci was named dean of academic planning, a position he held until 1983 when he resigned his administrative post in order to complete the fourth edition of his college chemistry text entitled "General Chemistry: Principles and Modern Applications." After a one-year leave, Petrucci returned to the classroom in 1984 on a half-time basis.

In discussing his years at Cal State, Petrucci recalls his work on the planning committee as one of his fondest memories. "It was a once-in-a-career experience. I had the opportunity to work with others to plan an entirely new campus." This opportunity included assisting with the physical development of the university, recruitment of faculty members and development of a curriculum. "It was great to plan and see the growth," he says.

Commenting on his contributions to the university, Petrucci notes, "As an administrator, I had the chance to oversee the expansion of the curriculum to go beyond a liberal arts base through the introduction of some applied programs. The role I identify most closely with is that of a classroom teacher and my textbook writing. Each role was very important to me and very challenging."

As a participant of the Faculty Early Retirement Program, Petrucci will return to campus this fall to teach two sections of general chemistry. Other retirement plans include writing another edition of his chemistry book and authoring other textbook projects.

Petrucci also will continue professional affiliations with the American Chemistry Society, the Society of Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, Textbook Authors Association and the Royal Society of Chemistry of Great Britain.

Summer Construction Includes Two More Projects

Plans are underway for two new campus construction projects slated to be completed this summer, reports William Shum, director of physical planning and development. In late July, installation will begin on a new electronic signboard located at the entrance to campus on the northwest corner of Northpark Boulevard and University Parkway. The sign will be used to highlight a variety of campus events throughout the year and will help enhance Cal State's image as a growing and dynamic institution.

According to Peter Wilson, vice president for student services, a policy currently is being developed regarding the use of the signboard, and the administration of this policy will be handled through the Student Life Office. Wilson said that priority will be given to publicizing major campus events that have university-wide appeal such as major speakers, academic events, concerts, theater productions, etc.

Another project planned for this summer is the construction of a pedestrian walkway running from Northpark Boulevard to the Perimeter Road. Located on the east side of University Parkway, the new walkway will help promote pedestrian safety and will be designed to meet handicap regulations. Construction on the walkway is slated to begin in mid-July. Both the walkway and signboard are being funded as minor capital outlay projects through the Chancellor's Office. Brandt Commercial Signs of Newport Beach, CA, is serving as the contractor for both of these projects.

In other construction news, excavation of the site of the new classroom/student services/faculty office building continues by Taylor Woodrow Construction California, Ltd. A special corporation yard for this contractor has been designated at an undeveloped site located south of the Physical Education Building. This site will be used for the stockpiling of excavated dirt and to house various construction materials. The contractor will use the stockpiled dirt for another project they are involved with; however, the dirt eventually will be moved off-campus, and the corporation yard area will be restored to its original condition. Within the next two weeks, construction of the foundation form for the new classroom building is anticipated to begin.
