TWO SAFETY INCIDENTS NOW IN HANDS OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES

Witnesses had seen him staggering prior to falling. He received CPR at the site and was transported to St. Bernardino Hospital, where he later died. The coroner’s office has ruled the death accidental pending an autopsy that will be conducted in about two months. Reports Ed Harrison, chief (Public Safety). The victim, Kenneth Aker, 30, Beumont, was here to visit the Community Counseling Center.

"Nothing points to foul play," Harrison stated, adding that, because the police and coroner have made a ruling on the death without a pathologist's report, criminal causes appear to have been ruled out.

In another incident, a book vendor was approached in parking lot D near Jack Brown Hall at 2:10 p.m., Jan. 25 by a white man, who opened his jacket and appeared to be carrying a revolver. The victim, Meagan Donnelly, escaped unharmed and called the campus police, who apprehended the suspect, David Allen Winger, 27, of Cedar Glen. Although no gun was found, he has been detained in San Bernardino County jail, booked on charges of carrying a firearm on campus. Campus police suspect he may have been planning a carjacking.

Chief Harrison says campus personnel have queried him informally about the uncertainty around the climate of public safety on campus.

"I understand that people are frightened," says Harrison, noting that regional and national fears have heightened peoples’ anxieties. "Overall we have seen an increase in auto-related crimes, but for the most part, this campus has been generally free of any violent crimes against persons."

The Third Annual CSU Microscopy Colloquium will be held at on campus April 9 and 10. Abstracts, which must be submitted on journal forms, are due by March 1. Both paper and poster presentations are encouraged. For registration or abstract form information, call Jeff Thompson or Klaus Braisch in the Biology Department.

TWO GAMES, TWO BUCKS
Faculty, staff and administrators—plus one guest each—are invited to see the CSUSB men's and women's basketball teams host Cal State, Los Angeles on Thursday, Feb. 10 at a half-price admission cost of only $2 when you show I.D. Game time for the women is 5:45 p.m., while the men tip off at 8:05 p.m. Students and scholars who earned academic or athletic honors during the 1992-93 season will be recognized at halftime. (Word has it that seating is limited and will be on an "available," "as available," first-come, first-served, best-seats-go-to-the-early-bird basis, so don't drag foot.)

SYMPHONIC BAND RELEASES FIRST CD
The first compact disc ever recorded by California State University, San Bernardino music students is on the market, says Cal State assistant professor of music, Luis S. Gonzalez. Performing under Gonzales' direction in the Cal State Recital Hall, the CSUSB Symphonic Band recorded the 52-minute CD in 12 hours over a two-day period. It includes Gustav Holst's Second Suite in F. Op. 28b, a "standard that every wind group should play," believes Gonzalez, and John Pavlock's 20th century piece "Epiphany," which contains some extreme changes in volume that capture the nature of the composer's feelings about the Vietnam War.

GIVING Cal State students educational experience is, of course, the key reason for making the CD, says Gonzalez. He was assisted in its production by equipment from the University of Redlands, and by Cal State technician Dan Robinson. The new disc is being sold in the university bookstore and the Music Department office.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS
Congratulations go to Bill Marshalek (Art) and his wife, Kathryn, on the birth of their baby girl. Chloe Ann Borns in England on Jun. 11. Chloe Ann weighed 8 pounds, 7 ounces, which is "not quite a British stone."

SYMPOSSM UNION TO CUT RIBBON
In correlation with Homecoming week, Cal State will hold a ribbon-cutting ceremony to celebrate the opening of its new addition to the Student Union. The Feb. 11 ceremony begins at 11:30 a.m. in the Student Union courtyard. President Anthony Evans and ASI Vice President, Detra Honshaw, will do the honors of dedicating the new addition. A reception with musical entertainment will precede the ceremony, and alumni, faculty and students are welcome to come.

"A dream come true," says Sonia Reagins Lilly, associate director (Student Unions. Lilly noted that the expansion of the building was under development for seven years and it is a "reward to see it completed." One of the new services available through the expansion of the Student Union is a professional copy center. The center provides students and faculty with discount rates from usual services to business cards. The new facility also houses such services as the ASI box office, food services and the book exchange, as well as the multicultural, women's resource and adult re-entry centers. It also furnishes an events center with a multipurpose room that seats 1,000. Tours of the Student Union will be held on Feb. 12 from 2-4 p.m. Plans to renovate the old building also will be discussed.

Upon completion of the clock tower, Cal State will hold an official grand opening.
